City puts hope in new center

Officials call it a solution to violence

By Joe Bel Bruno
North County News

In a matter of weeks, a once dusty storefront in the downtown Santa Fe area might offer the city's best solution to curb youth violence.

Police and city officials will dedicate the area's first community center in a storefront in the 100 block of Santa Fe Avenue. It will serve the area's mostly Hispanic community with social services and be used as a satellite police station.

The community center is just one way city officials are trying to prevent youth violence. City officials aren't alone in their efforts. Schools and residents acting on their own also are doing their part to prevent youths from getting involved in gangs and violence.

"We are placing a lot of hope in the downtown Community Learning Center," Police Chief Manuel Ortega said. "We will be more accessible to those who are afraid to come forward. We can't help clean up the streets without help from the community."

More than three years ago the Santa Fe district was considered among the most violent in the 7-square-mile city. Residents and police attest that when the sun went down on weekend nights, the city's downtown took on a violent hue.

Gang members and other teen-agers took to those streets, many on a quest to get drunk. Alcohol turned into violence.

In a five-month span between January and May 1989, eight youths were arrested in the Santa Fe area. Two included weapons violations, police report.

Planners OK 79 new homes

Tract planned for east side

By Joe Bel Bruno
North County News

Planning commissioners on Tuesday cleared the way for the construction of 79 homes in east Placentia.

The Van Daele Development Corp., based in Riverside, plans to build the homes near Hill and Alta Vista streets.

The tract will be next to the nearly completed Fieldstone development.

Commissioners voted 5-0 to approve a map for the tract and home designs. Commissioners Patricia Shoemaker and Patrick Melia were absent.

The only concern commissioners raised during a public hearing on the proposal was that the homes will be built near two active and several abandoned oil wells.

Their concerns focused on who would be liable should any of the future homes become contaminated by oil.

"Who is ultimately responsible if anything toxic is found near or around this tract?" Commissioner George Petzoldt said. "I want to make sure we are covered if this ever should happen."

Development Services Director Joyce Rosenthal said there have been no reports of toxic substances seeping into the soil near homes. All tests have been completed and show the area to be clean, she said.

No homes will be built on abandoned wells or be within 100 feet of the two active wells, she said.

There's joy all around at party for disabled students

By Joe Bel Bruno

Nellie Cacabelos' soft brown eyes sparkled with anticipation as Santa Claus walked closer to her table carrying a gift-wrapped box.

She grinned as the box was handed to her. And it didn't take long before the ribbon was off and wrapping paper fell to the floor.

Realizing a Cabbage Patch doll was tucked inside the box, her smile grew wider and she began to point at the new gift. For Cacabelos — who hasn't learned to talk because of mental retardation — it was the only way she could express her joy.

That was thanks enough for Rotary Club members who for the past 14 years have been hosting a holiday party for special education students at John Tynes Elementary School.

Santa Claus paid an early vist Friday to an estimated 50 children. Many students are confined to wheelchairs, some suffer from retardation and a few survive with the aid of life support systems.

"I love doing this because of the way it makes me feel, and for the opportunity to be here for the kids," said Marcie Freud, a Rotary member who was paired up with the young girl during this year's party.

More than 100 Rotarians and about 50 teachers from the school participated in the holiday party, which included songs, food and games. Children aren't the only ones that receive gifts at the party — the Rotary Club donated $1,000

Missing girl turns out to be willing runaway

By Joe Bel Bruno
North County News

An extensive search to find 14-year-old Alita Montenegro ended last Wednesday when police followed up on a tip that she was living out of a tanning room in a Fullerton health spa.

Police investigators were pulling up to the spa at Imperial Highway and Harbor Boulevard when they spotted Montenegro arriving in a car with an unidentified man. She fled but was caught by officers.

Police spokeswoman Corinne Loomis said the El Dorado High School freshman, missing since Nov. 21, appeared unremorseful and was "resentful of being located and being returned to her parents."

"She was not happy at all," Loomis said.

Rico Montenegro, the girl's father, said the family was relieved. It ended an 18-day search that had her parents wondering if she had been abducted against her will.

Montenegros' parents, who distributed 5,000 fliers in Orange County and beyond with the brown-haired, hazel-eyed girl's smiling face, had feared the worst after two short phone calls, including one in which they said they only heard their daughter sobbing.

"This comes as a great relief for my family, we are glad she is home safe," Montenegro said. "We owe thanks to the police department and (other agencies) who helped bring her home."

He said the tough part now comes in working with his daughter in family counseling to "make sure this doesn't happen again."

The Montenegros contacted the Adam Walsh Center in Orange, a non-profit group that offers free counseling, advocacy and referrals to missing and abused children and their parents. The Montenegros contacted the center to help distribute pictures of their daughter throughout the state.

"We're ecstatic that she's been found," spokeswoman Stella Avina said. "This is a scary thing for any parent, and I'm happy for the family. But, there are others out there that are still waiting."

Avina said the Montenegros probably have to resolve their problems through counseling, but runaways can't be forgotten. Fifty runaways and 46 abductions had been reported to the Adam Walsh Center through September this year.

There are six Placentia girls that currently have been reported as runaways to law enforcement agencies, police said.

"I don't want to see any kid on the street, so I have grave concern," Avina said. "The street is no place for them to be. We have a lot of horror stories."

Loomis said Alita Montenegro told police she left home because her parents don't let her do what she wants.

"That's a chasm that we're never going to close," Loomis said. "It's frustrating because it may very well happen again ... This child is no different than the other six in my folder.

She said the girl stayed at a Buena Park motel for at least one night and had been abusing drugs all the while she was gone from home.

Orange County Register staff writer Vik Jolly contributed to this report.

'Show them violence is not an option'

Street minister says youths need 'adults who care'

North County News

The kids in the barrios call him Pastor Carlos.

Each day Carlos Quinonez pounds the sidewalks in the city's three poorest neighborhoods in an effort to help youths in trouble. He is a self-styled "minister of the streets" and has earned the respect to the very kids he gives guidance to.

Quinonez, a former Set Free Christian Church member, is no stranger to gang life in Placentia. He graduated from Valencia High School in the 1970s and watched many of his friends follow the path of gang violence.

The only thing Quinonez can do is to treat teen-agers as equals and find them alternatives, he said.

Q Are the problems kids face today worse than the problems kids faced five years ago? What are the problems facing kids today?

A I think things are worse for the youths today, and they will continue to get worse unless we reach out to them. Our brothers and sisters on the street have little or no options to get out of the barrios ... so they stray off the right path. There are drugs on the streets, there are gangs on the streets, there is poverty on the streets, there are homeless on the streets, there are people laid off on the streets. They can be surrounded by bad circumstances and temptations. We need to help them out.

Q How serious a problem is youth violence in your community? On what do you base that?

A It is easy to find a solution for violence if all you know is violence. They see violence in their lives every day, nothing is changing that. I talk to the kids all the time. I go out to La Jolla and Santa Fe and they tell me. I don't need statistics to know that the youths are having a hard time out there.

Q Are kids more violent today than five years ago? Why?

A It's easy. Love and hate are two similar things. The youths need to understand love, it's something they must work at, be open to and accept. Hate is an emotion that is much easier to have and act out on. I don't think they are more violent today than five years ago, but I think it's easier to get into violent confrontations now than five years ago.

youths and regulate the sale of alcohol in the area.

The campaign resulted in a combined effort between Brea, Fullerton and Placentia officers in arresting youths who were repeatedly getting in trouble. Harsher alcohol restrictions were also slapped on bars and mini-markets as part of the revamping of downtown.

Though it worked, Ortega now must find ways to keep youths from turning to the streets.

"We put a lot of those guys in jail and that does have an effect on how much activity we have," he said. "What we have to do now is follow up while these guys are off the streets to change the minds of the kids who glorified them."

Except for one accidental shooting, there have been no homicides involving juveniles this year in Placentia — a statistic Ortega wants to keep, and he has widespread support among adults in the community.

Schools try to intervene early

The Placentia Yorba Linda Unified School District has made early intervention a priority. Programs have been developed districtwide to get the message to students — some as young as kindergarten — that violence is not the answer.

The Healthy Start program targets students in elementary school and junior high who are identified as in danger of joining gangs.

The program was launched last year after the district received a three-year state grant.

The unique aspect of the program — one of three currently operating in Orange County — is that it involves other agencies to offer counseling, parenting classes, home visits, health care and gang prevention services.

Healthy Start helps coordinate county social workers, police, the city's Human Services Department, literacy programs and other agencies.

"Prevention is a lot more cost-effective than an intervention. The prevention is sometimes the invisible solution because you can't see what you've done," she said.

"Children by the time they are about 15 are who they are going to be in life. You have to get them back there in those years when the identity formation is coming about.

"And you are teaching parents that, too," she said.

Getting in touch with parents is important, Rodriguez said. Parents need to be able to detect warning signs that their children might be headed for trouble. They also must be ready to tackle issues such as violence early, she said.

The prevention services are working, she said. Last year, Kraemer Junior High School summoned police to campus an average of three times a week. That number has diminished to zero and officials attribute the drop to to Healthy Start and mentoring programs on campus.

The schools also target older students who have showed signs of trouble. At Valencia High School, students can enroll in an elective course that educates them on topics from date rape to teen suicide and family problems to gangs and violence.

Sixty-four students meet daily in the SERVE class — which stands for social, emotional, recreational, vocational and educational. The class — which is slowly being integrated througout the Placentia Yorba Linda Unified School District — also is offered at Kraemer Junior High and El Dorado High School.

The program is the brainchild of Rick Lopez, John Ramirez and Albert Gonzales, who are district child welfare and attendance specialists.

Its goal is simple: to get the students to steer clear of trouble and graduate.

"This is real-life stuff," Lopez said. "SERVE is the magnetic field that keeps the students from falling farther from the center ring into such areas as alternative education, rehabilitation centers, juvenile hall or jail."

The class targets students with attendance problems who are at risk of dropping out. Behavior problems, fighting or other anti-social acts, are another tip off. And students with grades below "C" are at risk of failing.

It is not just high school students being targeted to keep them away from violence.

Parents get involved

Most parents are unprepared to discuss issues with their children that were rarely discussed with them when they were growing up. They contend it's not easy, but know it's required these days.

"It is scary when your child comes home with a note from the school to encourage parents to talk aboug gangs, drugs and (violence). It is even scarier when your kid is in the fourth grade and comes home with something like this," said parent Mark Razaband, whose 7-year-old son goes to John Tynes Elementary School.

"I didn't pay much attention when my first son was growing up ... never really stressed to him about violence and gangs," said Mary-Ann Judd, who has two sons, ages 23 and 16.

"He was involved in a few problems at school where kids his age were coming after him, and he was at a loss on how to handle the situation. I didn't make that mistake with (her younger son.)

"Don't fool around. I don't care how old they are, start talking early," she said.

Ortega agrees.

He is a strong supporter of early intervention to educate parents and children about the dangers of violence. However, he understands that something must be done in the meantime to stem the tide of violence.

The community center is the city's "best bet" right now, he said. The idea behind the center is that Spanish-speaking residents sometimes are afraid to go to City Hall for services, including filing police reports. So, many crimes go unreported.

Ortega points to cases in which police are tipped off that teenagers are being treated at hospitals for stab wounds. But the victims remain closed lipped once officers arrive to take a report, he said.

"The idea here is that the community will get to know these officers, and can speak Spanish with them," Ortega said. "It is community-based policing, in a sense. They might be more willing to open up to us, to report things, in their territory instead of the police station."

Councilwoman Maria Moreno — who has worked extensively with the community's "at-risk" youth — thinks the community center is just part of the solution. Moreno is a big supporter of the center, but feels the community must get more in touch with what teen-agers have to say.

Moreno launched a summer program last year that targeted kids to give them positive alternatives to gangs, drugs and violence. The "Placentia Dream Team" met daily — going on field trips, meeting with counselors, studying and just talking.

It was designed as a way to provide them with the proper tools and foundation to stay on the straight-and-narrow, Moreno said. Moreno said she learned valuable lessons.

"As a community and parents we need to be the cheering crowd for these kids, and I think it does make a difference," Moreno said. "We need to act more as guides in life for these kids. The bottom line is to spend more time with the youth."

One resident who is taking an active role in reaching out to youth is Howard Kay. Each month, the 15-year resident takes youngsters up in his Cessna 172 airplane.

Kay, a local businessman who has been flying since 1971, has been running the program since March. An estimated 15 youths — most under the age of 15 — have acted as honorary co-pilots.

It gives them a new perspective on life, he said.

"We take up the ones that are around the age where they are going to get the most peer pressure. We try to show them that there is a different way," said Kay, who takes off from Fullerton Airport. "At 7,000 feet in the air, it does give

Police are seeking leads in drive-by shooting

By Joe Bel Bruno
North County News

Police have few leads in a recent drive-by shooting at Kansas and Iowa streets that left two men wounded.

Police spokeswoman Corinne Loomis said witnesses and victims might not be telling investigators all they know about the assailants.

"We do find that often victims or witnesses of these types of incidents are unwilling to come forward out of fear of retaliation," she said. "Or, there is a desire to deal with it internally if it is a gang situation."

The shooting occurred on Dec. 4 at 7:30 p.m. when a blue sedan sped into the neighborhood and approached a strip of sidewalk on Kansas Street where five friends stood talking.

One of the passengers opened fire with a handgun, hitting Robert Silva, 19, and Placita Sotello, 20. The other three friends — all listed by police as teen-agers — were not hit.

Both victims were treated and released at UCI Medical Center in Orange.

Another reason investigators haven't turned up any new leads on the case is because it happened at night when the streets are usually empty, Loomis said.

Constitution Bowl tests students' knowledge

By Joe Bel Bruno
North County News

Quick: How is the number of electoral votes determined for a state?

You've got 15 seconds to come up with an answer. That's hardly enough time to consult the nearest encyclopedia should your memory of eighth-grade history class fail you.

If the parents of Clara Perry didn't know the answer, all they would have to do is ask the 13-year-old Kraemer Junior High School student. She helped lead a five-member team Monday to victory in the school's 12th annual Constitution Bowl.

Electoral voters are based on a state's number of representatives and senators, Robertson said. The answer was enough to give her team a 15-14 win against students in another history class.

The annual event is coordinated by teachers Bob Schall and R.C. Rodriguez to help get eighth-graders interested in learning about the Constitution. They admit lessons on the subject tend to bore students.

"The Constitution can be a really dry subject for students and we needed a way to get them motivated," Schall said. "The competition isn't just for winning, but has developed into who is top dog in the school."

The competition began last week with 36 teams made up of students from the two history classes. Those teams were narrowed down until there were only four left, which battled it out for the championships at a special competition held during the school's lunch period.

Four rounds were played between the teams until two were

IN OUR OPINION

Can't we talk Parent-to-parent?

By Jannlee Watson
Executive editor

Since last Thursday, the 11 community weekly newspapers of the North County News, with the South County News weeklies, The Orange County Register and the Orange County NewsChannel, have presented readers and viewers in-depth coverage about teen violence throughout the county.

While The Register and OCN focused their stories countywide, the weeklies covered the topic on a city-by-city basis for each of their newspapers. We hope you found the stories pertinent and informative.

We distributed questionnaires to a random sampling of police officers, teachers, teens and parents in each of our 11 communities to learn more about teen violence and its impact. By and large, the response we received was positive, and we extend our appreciation to the police departments and school districts that assisted us.

Although the survey was by no means scientific, in each city the responses to questions were similar among the four groups. But one question, in particular, did hold a surprising answer.

The majority of police, teachers, teens and parents throughout Orange County responded that the breakdown of the family was most likely to lead to youth and gang violence.

Having raised two sons, I know parenting today isn't easy and families don't breakdown overnight. As a newcomer to empty-nesting, it's easy now to look back and say what I would have done differently.

For instance, I would have borrowed a wonderful practice from the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. The Mormons, from the time the children are infants, set aside one night a week where all members of the family gather together at home.

I would have served dinners at the family table, not in front of the television.

I would not feel guilty because I was a working mother and compensate for it by over-giving.

I would have attended every back-to-school night. By doing so, they couldn't fib to me about their homework schedules.

My list could go on and on. You, too, probably have suggestions about effective parenting and as parents, we need to talk to each other.

We'd like you to share those suggestions with us and we'll publish them in our Jan. 20 edition. Please send your suggestions to: Parent-to-Parent, c/o North County News, PO Box 70004, Anaheim, Calif. 92825-0004. Fax (714) 704-3714.

IN YOUR OPINION

THESIS

Is 'affordable' proper adjective for housing?

Recent stories regarding Orange County adopting its Comprehensive Housing Affordability Strategy repeated the word "affordable" as some sort of descriptor for the word "housing."

Would someone please let me know how the word "affordable" helps define a type of housing? If we begin with the antithesis "unaffordable housing," we now know that housing defined as "affordable" is not unaffordable. This should be of great relief to an information-starved public.

Questions I don't know and the press doesn't know — but we should:

1. How much money do we have set aside for housing?
2. Who has been served with this money.?
3. Who will be served with future money based on approved plans?
4. Who hasn't been served?
5. Who will not be served under current plans?

It is my "guess" that families earning up to $10 an hour have not and will not receive housing assistance other than federal rent subsidies. In other words, I allege that you must earn more than twice the minimum wage to receive housing assistance. You must earn at least $24,000 a year before government will help with a family's housing needs.

We do know that crime is Orange County's major concern. Is it possible that we might be able to help the crime problem by making it easier for families to survive on $6 an hour?

Please do not use the adjective "affordable" with the noun housing. Rather, write "Blah City has just approved a $4 million housing plan which provides no housing assistance to a family of 4 earning less than $10 an hour."

I hope you understand our frustration in seeing almost all housing funds going to families who have market choice and not to families without choice. Perhaps the Orange County press can inform Secretary Cisneros that we'd like to see our housing dollars go to those who most need our help.

Allen P. Baldwin

Health-care reform: It could be just a pink slip away

By Jack Faris

The Health reform juggernaut is loosed. President Clinton's legislation has arrived on Capitol Hill. Now there is no turning back. Something will be done. We can only hope that what we eventually wind up with will be a medical system that will, in the spirit of the Hippocratic oath, do more good than harm.

But the American private sector isn't waiting for Washington to act. Whether we like it or not, health reform is already under way. Businesses and organizations that have shied away from tinkering with their health insurance plans for years are beginning to look for ways to trim costs, streamline benefits and reduce paperwork.

What's more, many employers fearful of a government dictate, are taking another look at the size and makeup of their work forces. The fact of economic life is going on right now especially among those employers who are beginning to realize that if the administration's plan becomes law, the more workers they have on the payroll, the more they're going to pay for health insurance.

President Clinton has said that millions of American workers are just a pink slip away from losing their insurance. He's right!

Small-business employees in particular have this fear because they know that if the government forces their companies to foot the bill, many small employers will have no choice but to issue pink slips in order to survive.

The nation's largest small-business organization, the 600,000-plus member National Federation of Independent Business, has determined that millions of small-business jobs will be on the line if a compulsory government-directed health system takes over. After studying several proposals, researchers found that those plans which demand payment from businesses — similar to the administration's bill — would threaten the livelihoods of between 9 milllion and 19 million people.

Although several new ideas have been suggested, such as sweeteners or subsidies for employers, doubt remains. Just ask any small-business owner two important questions about health-care reform: First, do you trust the government to manage a health system? Second, do you want a government subsidy or affordable health insurance?

Cost. Cost. Cost. In three words, that's the reason many small busi-

FROM 3

A We are never going to get rid of the word "gang." From the beginning of time there have always been gangs, kids are always going to hang around with each other and form gangs. But, the gangs of today are more and more violent. What happened to change this, you ask? Society, maybe the economy. We have to reach out to the youths and let them know that violence is not an option. Show them we care, give them pride in their community and their neighbors, and their brothers — no matter what side of town they are on.

Q How many of the students you counsel have confided that they own a gun? Committed a violent act? Thought about it?

A I don't ask and they don't have to tell me. If there is a kid in trouble who wants my help ... who wants to discover the Lord...then I'll help them go that way no matter if they carry weapons. I have to expect they do carry weapons at some point, and I know guns aren't that hard to get ahold of.

Q If you have to pick one thing contributing to the increase in youth violence, what would it be?

A The youths need adults who care. They need parents who care and a community that cares. They need somewhere to go, a place to feel loved. If that's a school, a church, a community center. Right now, these kids have nowhere to go but hanging around on the streets. Some feel they have nothing worth working at, that they will never go to college and won't find good jobs. We need to give them more opportunities so they won't be on the streets, and won't find themselves in circumstances where they might become violent. Kids aren't violent inside, it's the circumstances they are placed in that makes them violent.

them a new perspective on things. It shows them there are other things in life other than the barrio routine."

Teen-agers are picked for the flights with the help of Carlos Quinonez, a former Set Free Christian Fellowship minister who now works on his own with youths from the area.

Quinonez, a Valencia High School graduate, said the flight program is the kind of thing that must be pursued. He believes the answers to youth violence are with the kids themselves.

"We need to be asking the youngsters what the problems are and what the solutions are, not a bunch of adults who aren't in touch with the streets," said Quinonez.

eliminated. The finals included an estimated 40 questions being asked in a four-minute round — roughly one every eight seconds.

The four teams were narrowed down to the two top contenders. The winning team included Jancy Liu, Beth Leverett, Jimmy Falbe, Suprabh Vermaand and Perry.

Students said there is more of a challenge to learning about the Constitution when put to them as part of a quiz. It made learning fun, they said.

"This was a lot better than just reading out of a book and taking a test," Falbe said. "We would call each up on the telephone and quiz each other because we wanted to win."

"I got really nervous during the finals," Perry said. "But, if I'm not really nervous and have too much confidence, than I won't do well."

The rewards for winners include a pizza party and a tour of the Orange County Superior Courthouse in Santa Ana, Schall said.

HEALTH: Reform

nesses do not provide insurance. Sweeteners, subsidies, government promises aside, the No. 1 problem is the cost of health insurance.

Even if small-business owners can obtain health insurance, the price is several times more than that paid by big companies. Once insured, all it takes to ignite the cost rocket is for a firm to file a slightly higher-than-usual claim.

Recently First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton said: "I cannot be responsible for saving every undercapitalized small-business owner in America." That's OK. Small business does not want our government to save us. Left to do what it does best — free enterprise emtrepreneurism — small business can take care of itself, thank you.

What small business — and all Americans — need is common sense lawmaking that does not skewer one segment of society to curry favor with another. To demand that all employers cough up the cash to pay for a national health-care program makes no sense. That scheme pits business owners against their own employees and against other taxpayers and will inevitably result in pink slips for millions.

Jack Faris is president of the National Federation of Independent Business.

Some tips for enjoying the holiday magic

I have started my December street excursions, checking out the "deck the halls" which is more like deck the house, garage, yard and trees ... But, so what? It's the holiday season and sparkling lights are de rigueur.

So far, here's what I've seen that you might enjoy. Rolling Hills Drive, just west of Placentia Avenue, a house and front yard tree that's "just right." On Moonbeam, you'll find the (so far) best front yard. It's filled with Disney character cutouts, larger than life lollipops and candy canes edge the front yard and driveway. If you look carefully you'll see Peter Pan and Tinkerbell gliding through the air.

Just down the street on Ruby Drive, across from Ruby Drive Elementary School, is a National Lampoon Christmas Vacation Griswald look-a-like house with more twinkling, blinking, zigging and zagging lights than I've ever seen and it's fun to watch!

More than eggs and toast for breakfast for Irene. Nominated by her school, Irene Patrick, Tynes Elementary School kindergarten teacher, competed with 44 teachers throughout the county for Orange County Teacher of the Year 1993-94. She received the exciting news that she was the teacher of the year at a breakfast sponsored by the Orange County Department of Education.

The Learning Disabilities Association of California presented Placentia Yorba Linda District employees Dudley Weist and Janice Rodriguez with certificates of appreciation and an honorarium for their dedication to and support of children with special needs. Our congratulations, too!

YOUTH

Taking a positive approach

Police officer, student agree: Parental support is key to success

By Barbara Giasone
North County News

"Why aren't they covering the good stuff on TV?" Sarah Oliver wants to know. "All they ever tell are bad things, and it's giving kids bad ideas."

Placentia Police Officer Rick Miller has the same concerns.

"What positive image can children get from seeing a man beat up with a brick and the jury say the suspect is not guilty of assault with a deadly weapon? They show kids Miller Lite tastes great. Does it?" Miller asked.

"They're saying condoms are a cure, that today's music is good. I can't believe kids are buying this stuff," Miller said. "When I was a kid there was right and wrong, everything was black and white. Now, everything appears gray."

Sarah and Officer Miller are sharing opinions at Sierra Vista School where last year she was named student of the year in the DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) program.

This year, Sarah is a seventh grader at Tuffree Junior High, still plugged into the DARE curriculum where students are taught by Miller and his partner, Officer John Somoya.

And she's still concerned some youths lack guidelines to know right from wrong.

"I've seen some students change just because of lack of parental interest," Sarah said. "They get into the wrong scene because they're scared to say 'no' (to drugs and alcohol)."

Miller said Sarah's concerns were part of the criteria for her selection as top DARE student. "She participated in class, was interested in fellow students, displayed courtesy and is a terrific person."

At the same time, he bemoaned a handful of DARE graduates he's come across in later years who have forgotten the curriculum.

"I only have to turn the corner from this school to see a group of kids hanging out smoking," Miller said. "It really saddens me."

Miller, a 17-year veteran with Placentia Police Department, said he used to conduct parent effectiveness meetings to outline ways to enforce good behavior.

Barbara Giasone/North County News

Placentia Police Officer Rick Miller, who has worked with the DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) program for five years, visits Sarah Oliver who was DARE student of the year at Sierra Vista School. Now a seventh grader at Tuffree Junior High, Sarah continues to follow the DARE curriculum.

"But the only parents who showed up were those with honor roll students," Miller said.

"A lot of parents don't check up on their children; in fact, many don't even know the parents' names of their children's friends. How many really know what their kids are doing?" Miller added.

Oliver said she considers herself fortunate to have the support of her parents, Katherine and Dave. She also takes an interest in the activities of her brother Daniel, 15, a student at Troy Tech.

Raised in Placentia, Sarah has been active in Girl Scout activities. With an artistic flair, she has also represented her school in the district PTA Council "Reflections" art competition.

In addition, she shared musical talents playing saxophone with the school marching band.

Family vacations, she said, have provided some of her best experiences.

Recently, the Olivers — and Sarah's dog, Zack — joined cousins on a camping trip.

"We heard a lot of banging going on one night, and found a bear tearing down a nearby storage shed to get Zack's food," Sarah recalled. "The bear even brought along a beer bottle — I guess he was looking for some munchies."

Proud of her daughter's accomplishments, Katherine Oliver said she grew up in Whittier at a time when drug-related problems were kept hush-hush.

"I can remember my parents saying, 'You don't get involved in drugs or you're on your own.'"

Officer Miller would approve.

Additional DARE students of the year are Sara Houghton, Brookhaven; Juan Pena, Golden; Allison Helwich, Van Buren; Keith Gallagher, Wagner; and Amy Innerbichler, St. Joseph.

AROUND TOWN

Mock trial team finishes second

El Dorado High School's mock trial team placed second in this year's mock trials competition. Fifty schools from throughout Orange County took part in the competition held in the courtrooms of the Orange County Superior Courthouse in Santa Ana.

The fictional case tried by the teams (People vs. Whitman), revolved around child abduction and grand theft. Judges and attorneys who practice in the county volunteered their time to preside over the mock trials, keep score and coach the high school teams.

Each high school team played the defense or the prosecution every competitive round. El Dorado High School was 7-0 before losing to Rosary High School in the final round.

Dan Cook, the attorney-coach for El Dorado, trained the team on how to present each side. "They absorbed my instructions and suggestions like sponges," he said.

Bonnie Shea, the teacher-adviser for the team, said that the 18 students on the team "practiced every Sunday evening, in between classes, and during the school lunch hour. Many of the team members are freshmen and sophomores, so next year we'll have a lot of experienced and talented students to lead the team."

Key Ranch hosts Christmas event

The George Key Ranch will host its annual "Christmas at the Ranch," from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday at its historic Placentia location, 625 W. Bastanchury Road.

Included in the activities will be tours of the decorated ranch, period music, stories, antique cars, period fashion demonstrations, and turn of the century treats.

Admission to the event is $3 for adults and $2 for children 3 to 12 years old. For information, call the park office at (714) 528-4260.

Olive Crest develops Christmas wish list

A Christmas wish list has been developed by Olive Crest Treatment Centers for Abused Children for the several Olive Crest homes that provide shelter and comfort to abused, abandoned or neglected children.

Olive Crest has extended its requests to individuals, corporations, churches, organizations and foundations in surrounding communities to provide the best possible homes these abused children can have throughout the year.

Unused items requested for the homes include: furniture, major appliances, televisions, VCRs, sets of pots and pans, dishes, blankets, pillows, bath towels, white sheets, toasters, flatware, alarm clocks, plants and much more.

Olive Crest residential homes provide out-of-home family care and treatment for emotionally disturbed children who have been physically or sexually abused, abandoned, neglected or from dysfunctional family environments.

For more information, call Miriam Gandall at (714) 777-4999, etx. 144.

Grandparent group plans Christmas party

A Christmas luncheon party, hosted by "Raising Our Grandkids," a newly forming support group for grandparents and grandchildren, will be held from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday at Placentia Linda Hospital.

Grandparents will exchange cookies, the children will exchange ornaments and Santa will take Christmas list requests from the grandchildren.

For information or reservations, call Georgia at 996-3034 or Claudia, 996-0134.

FOR GENERATIONS CANCER PLAGUED THIS FAMILY. THEN WE CAME INTO THE PICTURE.

It's a tragic coincidence that cancer has taken so many members of this family over the years.

It took Frank Domato in 1961. Patricia O'Hara Brown in 1974. And Serafino Gentile in 1982.

But the fact that the chain of tragedies has now been broken is no coincidence at all.

Over the last 40 years, research programs supported by the American Cancer Society have made increasing progress in the treatment detection and prevention of cancer.

In 1985 alone, the Society funded over 700 projects conducted by the most distinguished scientists and research institutions in the country.

So it's no coincidence that in 1986, cancer did not take Debra Gentile—Frank Domato's great-granddaughter. Just as it didn't take hundreds of thousands of others who have been successfully treated for the disease.

You see, we are winning. But we need you to help keep it that way.

Membership drive a success thanks to community efforts

By Peggy Butler
North County News

PTA NEWS

The 1993-94 PTA-PTSA membership drive has been a wonderful success, thanks to the efforts of a supportive community of advocates for children. The response to this year's drive equaled last year's 12,000 plus members within the Placentia Yorba Linda Unified School District.

Congratulations to the following schools for the 100-percent teacher membership in PTA: Brookhaven, Bernardo Yorba, Bryant Ranch, El Camino, Fairmont, Glenknoll, Glenview, Golden, Linda Vista, Mable Paine, Rio Vista, Rose Drive, Ruby Drive, Sierra Vista, Topaz, Travis Ranch, Tynes, Van Buren, Wagner and Woodsboro.

The teacher membership is a special expression of support for the objectives of PTA. The teachers are the "T" in the Parent Teacher Assocaiton. Parents and teachers work together to build a future for all children.

The Linda Vista Elementary PTA sponsored a holiday quilt drawing at the Cultural Arts Night on Dec. 9. Donations of $1 for ticket drawings were collected in the front office where the quilt was on view for a few days before the drawing. Donations of $2 were accepted that evening and $5 donations per family were accepted for a chance to win the quilt. Thanks to all who shared the nice family evening.

The Placentia-Yorba Linda PTA Council would like to thank the Yorba Linda City Council and Mayor John Gullixson for the special ceremony at the council meeting on Dec. 7, recognizing special community volunteers, especially certain PTA presidents and their schools. They each received beautiful certificates of appreciation signed by the Mayor with one to the school and one to the PTA president.

Those honored were: Eileen Ford, Bernardo Yorba Junior High; Rhonda Cohen, Fairmont Elementary School; Carol Vetter, Glenknoll Elementary School;

THE ORANGE COUNTY Register

FRIDAY
Dec. 17

SHOW: In 'Brief.' Julia Roberts and Denzel Washington star in the season's new thriller, "The Pelican Brief." It promises to be one of the year's big hits. Henry Sheehan says whether it's worth all the fuss.

In the air. Just who are those men and women who bring traffic salvation to the gridlocked? They're radio traffic reporters and Gary Lycan gets behind the dial to find what makes these people fly.

SATURDAY
Dec. 18

SHOW: Cuba crisis. As part of the Register's occasional series on world music, Agustin Gurza looks at Cuba and the new rhythms coming from the island. The music is surviving cultural blockades to attract attention in the U.S.

SUNDAY
Dec. 19

SHOW: Washington's times. With two hit movies — "The Pelican Brief" and "Philadelphia" — this season, Denzel Washington is moving from strength to strength. Barry Koltnow sits down with the actor and gets the lowdown.

ACCENT: Pointless prose. See how bad bad writing can really be as we present our winners in our Official All Thumbs Keyboard Bad Writing Contest.

TRAVEL: Take it easy. Find out how to kick back in the British Virgin Islands. Famous as a yachter's haven, it's also a great place to loaf.

SPORTS: College basketball. UCLA plays host to LSU, and USC entertains Sacramento. UCI travels to Georgetown, while Cal State Fullerton is home against Utah. For the full college basketball report, read The Orange County Register on Sunday.

MONDAY
Dec. 20

SPORTS: The NFL. The 4-9 Rams visit Riverfront Stadium at Cincinnati to take on the 1-12 Bengals, the NFL's worst. The Raiders play host to the Tampa Bay Buccaneers. Complete NFL results appear in The Orange County Register on Monday.

BUSINESS MONDAY: On the rebound. Bill Seeger was laid off in 1991, but instead of throwing a pity party or robbing a bank, he, wife Dorene and their 4 kids started Crafters Mall in Riverside. It not only provides them with a living, but income for about 250 craft makers. It certainly hasn't been a snap; they tell how they did it.

E-mail etiquette. Ever sent someone a hate letter through electronic mail? What about firing off a message without bothering to double check your grammar, add a subject heading or include your computer ID or screen name? If you answered yes, you've probably violated some of the basic rules of proper e-mail etiquette — or maybe not. As e-mail becomes more pervasive, so do the rules of the electronic road. But proper e-mail etiquette for some people is senseless bother for others. Says one hard-core e-mail user: "We're making it up as we go along."

'Tis the season for ... what? Leftovers!? You bet, and out of Sierra Vista School's Favorite Recipe's Cookbook comes just what we need — a quick and tasty all-in-one goodie.

Janet Lew's "Crustless Quiche" is on page 103: ½ cup biscuit mix; 1½ cups milk; 6 teaspoons butter; 3 eggs; pinch salt; 1 cup diced ham, turkey, chicken or bacon; 2 green onions, chopped; 1 4-ounce can sliced mushrooms, drained; and 1 cup grated Cheddar cheese. Heat oven to 350 degrees. Combine first five ingredients and mix well. Turn into ungreased 9-inch or 10-inch deep glass pie plate. Add meat, mushrooms and green onion by poking into the batter. Bake for 45 minutes. Let stand 10 minutes. Serves six.

"Right now we have documents that say this is a clean site," Rosenthal said. "Nothing would be on a homeowner's lot. It would all be traced back to Unocal."

The old Union Oil Co., which changed its name to Unocal, built the wells decades ago, she said. The company will continue to operate the two remaining wells, pumping oil from the area through underground pipelines.

The developer purchased the 21-acre site earlier this year. Fieldstone received approval to build on the site in 1989.

The city sent out 75 letters to residents who live near the site, and not one negative response came in, Rosenthal said. However, a resident who lives in an adjacent complex in Yorba Linda did raise a few complaints during the hearing.

"There are a lot of young families who live in my complex, and during the Fieldstone experience there was a lot of heavy machinery," Dave Lasher said.

Work on the site will be restricted to 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday.

PARTY

this year for school administrators to purchase computer software.

Principal Beth Brendt believes the event shows just how much the community cares.

"We always look forward to this event because you can see the joy this brings to the kids," said Brendt, whose school has the largest number of special education children in the Placentia Yorba Linda Unified School District. "This is what the holidays are all about."

The event also was the perfect time for students to get decked out in holiday fashions. JoAnne Yund and Jennifer Bright, both 12, said the party is the only time they get to wear their "Christmasy" earrings to school.

Carefully maneuvering her electric wheelchair around tables where the party was held, Bright inspected what her friends got from Santa Claus. Most got dolls, puzzles, books and games.

"I got a game called Taboo," said Bright, whose wheelchair has a ventilator machine built into it to assist her breathing. "I think everyone had a good time talking and eating ... looking at their presents."

Yund agreed.

"It is the foods and the presents, but especially the presents," joked Yund, who is also restricted to a wheelchair.

Probably most satisfied by the event was Edwin Thompson. The 9-year-old received a box of action figures modeled after his favorite professional wrestlers.

For now, he'll develop strategies using the small renderings of wrestlers such as "The Ultimate Warrior." Someday he hopes to be in the ring himself.

"I want to be called 'Snowflake' when I wrestle," he said. "I can practice with these."

Sitting by his side was John Rochelle, who spent the day talking with Thompson about wrestling moves and the latest on the sport's antics. He also learned a lot, and not just about wrestling.

"This is very fulfilling for me," Rochelle said. "It's a good opportunity to share with others ... to really reach out and be with someone you ordinarily wouldn't have met."

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

SHE KISS-ES FOOD

Local author's cookbook tells how to keep it short, simple

By Barbara Giasone
North County News

Her teen-agers had barely left the nest when the phone started ringing.

"How do you make that casserole? What's in your potato salad?"

Stranded in the kitchen, Jill and Joe Koch III were starved for home-cooked food. Survival was only a mom-call away.

"That's what got me thinking it's time to put my recipe collection into a book," said Fullerton author Mary Jane Koch, whose "Keep It Short & Simple Cookbook" (Northwest Publishing: $10) is targeted for the don't-have-time-to-cook bunch.

Caught up in the career and social fast lanes that leave most Orange Countians searching for a feast without the fuss, Koch assembled recipes with five ingredients or less, excluding seasonings. Flavor and simplicity, she said, were mandatory.

First, she thumbed through tattered newspaper articles, even napkins and envelopes with recipes scrawled across the front. Those noted "excellent and easy" on the corner were indexed for the book.

Next, Koch culled recipes from her "Food and Fun" club, a leftover from the old Welcome Wagon organization, that has been meeting for 15 years.

Tucked between the book's 141 pages are Madonna Klinefelter's Chicken Cranberry and Rosalie Routt's Fresh Broccoli Salad. Even the Troy High School PTA Casserole has received nationwide distribution.

Koch said Veal Scallopini, which she prepares in advance of dinner parties, has become a family favorite.

She explained it isn't necessary to know how to cook to prepare good food. "If you can read and use common sense, something great will come together in less time than it takes to drive down to the nearest take-out place. And you'll know what you're eating."

Koch recalled her mother's culinary fiascos in the family's Michigan kitchen. "We had this standard dinner of peas, mashed potatoes and gravy. I'd find her cakes and pies in the garbage can. Cooking just wasn't her bag."

Luckily, the family had a maid who Koch idolized. "I'd sleep in her room, get up in the morning, make up menus and put on breakfast. My parents would pay me for my efforts," she recounted.

But it wasn't until Koch graduated from Mills College in the Bay Area and was out in the working world when she got a handle on cooking. While working for Libby McNeil & Libby in San Francisco, she learned about the growing, processing and preparation of foods.

"I started gathering recipes and hosting small dinner parties, using recipes that were quick," she said.

When she married husband, Joe, she took on an instant family — Joe III was 8 and Jill 4, whose diets didn't include gourmet delicacies.

"The children didn't like fancy," Koch said. "Our Christmas dinner is still simple: turkey with Pepperidge Farm stuffing, cranberries, green beans, mashed potatoes, gravy.

"My next book, however, will include fat grams," she mused.

Spending one year on her recent repertoire, she first used components from her own secretarial business to print the recipes. But as orders piled up from friends and club members, she turned the manuscript over to a Salt Lake City publishing firm.

"I sent the finished book to my mother, who is 90, and she ordered extras for her senior friends," Koch said. "That tells me the recipes are easy, not too spicy — and traditional."

The "Kiss" cookbook, "Keep It Short & Simple," is available at local bookstores or by calling Koch at (714) 773-1090.

HOLIDAYS

Tips on finding the right gift for children

With the holiday season speeding toward us, parents and grandparents are beginning their annual quest to find the "right" gifts for the children in their lives — gifts that will have meaning beyond this season or this year. Gifts that won't be sold at next summer's garage sale, because they're not "in" anymore. Gifts that their children will learn from and grow with, as well as enjoy.

"One of the best gifts you can give is the gift of discovery," said Dr. Alvin Granowsky, an expert in childhood education. "By selecting presents that expand their worlds, you're fueling their curiosity, broadening their knowledge, and providing a source of pleasure they'll enjoy for years to come."

With that in mind, here are some ideas for gifts that the children on your list won't outgrow — gifts for every interest and budget. Some are appropriate for one child, others, such as the telescope, the home computer, and the World Book Encyclopedia, are perfect family gifts. And all of them will be valued long after this year's trendy (and often very expensive) toys, fashions, sports equipment, and other "hot" gifts are gathering dust in the closet.

- A coin collecting book, coins minted the years you and the child were born, and a few foreign coins. Or a stamp collecting book, some stamps, and a magnifying glass.
- A small tent and sleeping bag, and an outdoor survival guide.
- A starter set of "real" tools: hammer, screwdriver, wrench, etc., engraved with his or her initials. Accompany it with a book of projects to try.
- An insect collection jar, a butterfly net, and a field guide (along with instructions to release the specimens unharmed).
- A telescope and glow-in-the-dark star guide.
- A classic board game, like chess, checkers or cribbage.
- An introduction to world events, history, heros and wonders (and a leg-up on homework), via a set of The World Book Encyclopedia.
- A bound journal and a copy of Thoreau's "Walden" to read together.
- A home computer, new software for the computer at home, or a used typewriter and a ream of paper.
- An introduction to your favorite sport: a putter and some golf balls; a tennis racquet and a can of balls; a "grown up" baseball bat and ball; a football, soccer ball or basketball. And, of course, a few tips from you.
- Binoculars, a bird identification guide, and a bird feeder for their window. Or "adult" gardening tools, a gardening book and some seeds and bulbs.
- A camera, some film, a photo album and copies of favorite family photos.
- A piece of jewelry that symbolizes your shared faith (e.g. a Cross or Chai), or is significant in another way (e.g. a birthstone).
- A microscope and slides (both pre-prepared and blank).
- An "adult" watch or their own clock radio.
- Copies of a few of your favorite classic books, with a note written in each talking about when and why you enjoyed them.
- A piece of your family's history — something you received from a parent or grandparent, along with the story of its significance.
- A guide to fossils and some fossils or dinosaur bone fragments.
- An overnight bag or backpack embroidered with their initials.
- A musical instrument (as small as a harmonica, or as big as a piano), instructions or lessons.

Giving gifts from this list will gain you the quiet thanks of your child's or grandchild's teachers as well. Educators encourage students to pursue hobbies and collections, strongly recommend that children have reference materials and books available at home, and applaud all family efforts to keep their children excited about learning.

Consider training when buying a computer

Submitted by Futurekids Computer Learning Centers

Twenty-seven percent of American homes have personal computers. Christmas and Hanukkah gifts will add millions more.

While computers have been streamlined, training is required. If you and the children are limited to computer games or need some help in learning more about computers, Futurekids can help you realize the creative potential of these powerful machines.

We all know that fluency with computers is basic to the world of our children's future. Recent research shows that computer-based learning also has a positive impact on the ways children actually learn and their enthusiasm for learning in any setting.

In addition, guided computer use promotes important personal competencies — self-confidence, independence, and a positive orientation to the future — that can be a big advantage for children in the complex, fast-changing world of today and the future.

In addition to weekly classes, teaching computer literacy to both children and adults, Futurekids Computer Learning Centers are offering some special holiday opportunities:

Holiday Camps: For a low price, you can provide your child with a unique, fun and adventurous learning experience. Activities include lots of hands-on computer experience as well as computer-generated craft projects or lots of time to use some very special, fun and educational programs.

Gift certificates: Want an original gift, one-size-fits-all for kids, grown-ups and senior citizens? You can purchase a certificate for as little as one lesson or for a whole series. Your local center will be happy to help meet your gift-giving needs.

Join us at a computer experience and make this holiday extra special!

HOLIDAY CAMPS NOW FORMING!

In 6 months, your child will learn computers!

At Futurekids, learning computers is an adventure in fun that will benefit your children for the rest of their lives.

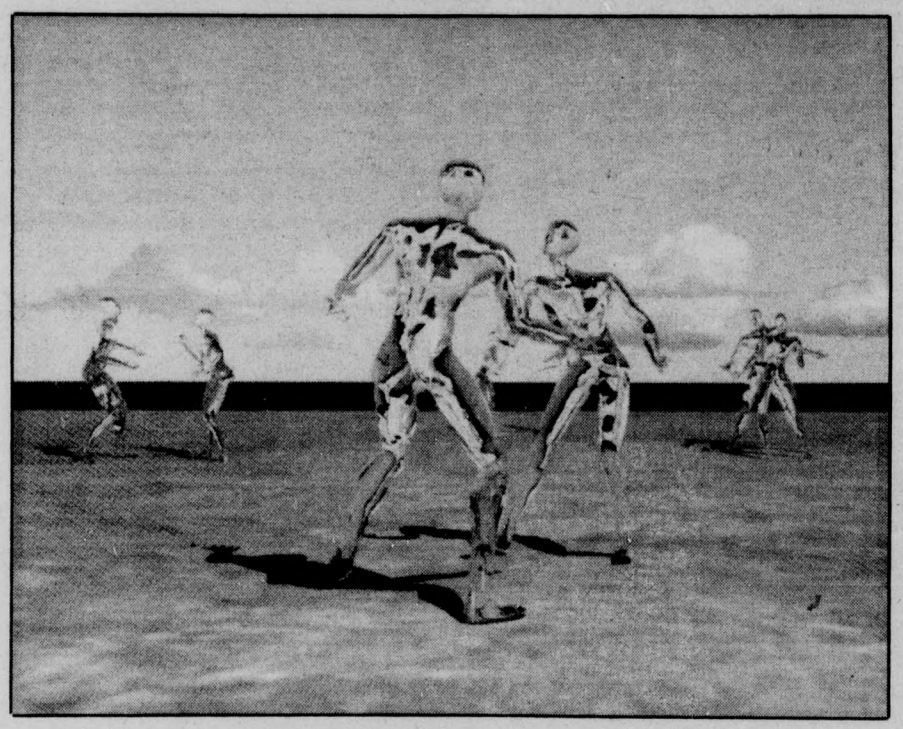
HIGH TECH



High-tech live animation whisks Orange dancer Sylvia Turner, below, into the Las Vegas Luxor Hotel spotlight as she appears in the new 3-D entertainment venture, "In Search of the Obelisk." With sensors attached to body joints, her self-choreographed dance movements were transferred onto project-specific software developed by Chapman University alumnus Frank Vitz.

LIVE ANIMATION

Sensors transform Orange dancer onto Vegas screen

By Barbara Giasone
North County News

Holiday tourists vacationing at the new Luxor Hotel in Las Vegas won't recognize Orange dancer Sylvia Turner when she emerges from a pool of water as a transparent, crystalline figure.

But take it from Chapman University alumnus Frank Vitz, who developed the software that creates live animation: It's Turner's body movements transformed into computerized stick figures that dance across the Vistavision screen in Luxor's newest attraction, "In Search of the Obelisk."

To add human action to the motion simulator-based movie, sensors were attached to Turner's key body joints. In an 8-foot space, she rehearsed 16 hours and performed eight hours while six cameras captured her choreographed routines that animated the script.

On a legal pad, Turner worked out second-by-second images to coincide with the soundtrack animation.

It wasn't the first time Turner, who is dance department chairwoman at Rancho Santiago College, has worked with electronics. Several years ago, she was choreographer for a collaborative ensemble, "Connect 3," interacting with a composer and painter.

Another time, she worked on floor pressure sensitizers hooked up to a computer. "When I danced, I actually generated my own music," she said.

Turner also had input on the Luxor's "Time Storm," a time-travel adventure in which the audience sits in a seven-story, steeply raked theater to experience high-speed scenarios.

Meanwhile, her husband Richard, who teaches sculpture at Chapman University, has been commissioned to sculpt a futuristic aerospace design of the 1950s for the Los Angeles Green Line Aviation Station.

Dancing since age 7 in Washington D.C., Turner performed classical and avant garde selections in New York early in her career. She also worked with the Ann Arbor Dance University Theater in Michigan.

Married in 1968, the Turners moved to Orange in 1970 when Richard joined the Chapman faculty. Sylvia worked part time at Fullerton College and California State Unviersity, Fullerton before shifting to Rancho Santiago in 1978.

She continued dancing independently for Gloria Newman Theater and choreographed dances for competitive ice skating teams based in San Diego.

In the classroom, Turner advocates arts reinforce traditional learning.

"Children exposed to music training do better in math," she said. "And those who develop large motor skills have better reading scores."

Taking her lecture demonstrations to county elementary schools, she emphasizes communication with dance, spotlighting movement through poetry.

"You don't learn dance only with fancy foot movements," she said. "Fifty percent of being a good dancer comes from mental concentration."

Living in a historic Orange home, the Turners periodically have their feet planted in a different era as they support the preservation activities.

Yet, she realizes the future in dance reflects society.

"Dancers don't operate in a vacuum, you know," she said.

CURTAIN CALL

'Homecoming' tough to pull off

By Peggy O'Hara
For the North County News

"The Homecoming," the current production of the Brea Theatre League, is a sweet and sentimental story of Christmas.

Set in the foothills of a poverty-striken Virginia during the great depression, the play features characters based on the popular television show, "The Waltons."

Instead of John-Boy, you'll meet Clay-Boy. This play is an adaptation of an autobiographical book by Earl Hamner Jr. You'll also be reintroduced to the Spencer clan, plus two of the most hospitable elderly ladies, Miss Emma and Etta Staples.

One of the most delightful moments in this production is a brief re-enactment of the story of Bethlehem with Diondra and Brittany Thomas. As the young Joseph and Mary they sing a traditional hymn with harmonious ease and clearness.

A large cast including actors who have appeared before with Brea Theatre League and/or on stages in Yorba Linda, La Habra, La Mirada and Fullerton, portrays such characters as the sheriff, Rev. Dooley, Ike Godsey, Birdshot (I don't remember him) and Charlie Sneed.

This stage adapation by Christopehr Segal, aka Perry Clark, does not lend itself well to a community theater, stage or budget.

A polished production necessitates finding or creating authentic costuming and sets of the 30s. Researching the hairstyles of that period is time consuming, but very important to make the actors comprehend the attitudes and expectations of a time 60 years ago.

The most important element — believability of the characters — is lacking in this show.

Appreciating and understanding the hours of effort and dedication that went into this or any other community theater makes writing about this show very difficult.

To paraphrase a well-known professional reviewer, "some (amateur theater) can't be seen and reviewed. It requires accommodation and tolerance."

Credit must be given to the members of the cast, crew and management for their efforts. Without these volunteers, our community would be lacking in the arts.

THEATER REVIEW

Youths shine in 'East of the Sun'

By Peggy O'Hara
For the North County News

"East of the Sun and West of the Moon" marks the 20th anniversary of South Coast Repertory Theatre's Young Conservatory.

Playing only two weekends on SCR's Second Stage, this play featuring eight teen-age actors and one adult is adapted from a Norwegian folk tale of the same name.

Richly costumed and elaborately staged, this seldom-seen play is representative of the fine program offered by SCR's conservatory.

The story deals with an assorted number of masked gargoyles who capture and transform a handsome young man into a bear. He kidnaps a beautiful and compassionate young girl who is bewildered by the adventure and taunted by inhuman creatures. She discovers she must sacrifice herself to release her beloved from the clutches of a wicked and warrior-like evil troll queen.

Perhaps the most definitive difference between this and other youth theater presentations is the complete involvement and dedication of each of the young actors in the play.

Under professional guidance, these students receive intense training, unavailable to most community programs.

Many of the students have appeared in or are appearing in SCR's annual "A Christmas Carol." Many former students have been seen in other Orange County theatrical offerings. Other participants have entered the educational arena, and some have become a part of theatrical and film productions.

"East of the Sun and West of the Moon" coninutes Friday, Saturday and Sunday. For tickets, call 957-4033.

MOVIE REVIEW

'Sister Act' is habit-forming

By Larry Katz
For the North County News

What happens when you have a hugely successful movie? You have a sequel. "Sister Act 2" is here. Its title is "Sister Act 2: Back in the Habit."

This time Whoopie Goldberg, playing a Las Vegas lounge singer-turned-nun, returns to the convent where she sought refuge from her murderous ex-boyfriend in the first installment.

The sisters of St. Catherine's Convent are dealing with an inner-city group of tough teens who, of course, think they know it all. The nuns are frustrated. They seek and find Whoopie (Sister Mary Clarence) who is back in Las Vegas. The nuns convince her to return to help them out. She realizes music is the way to change the kids.

"Sister Act 2: Back in the Habit" works as well as the first for several reasons. Goldberg is funny and charismatic.

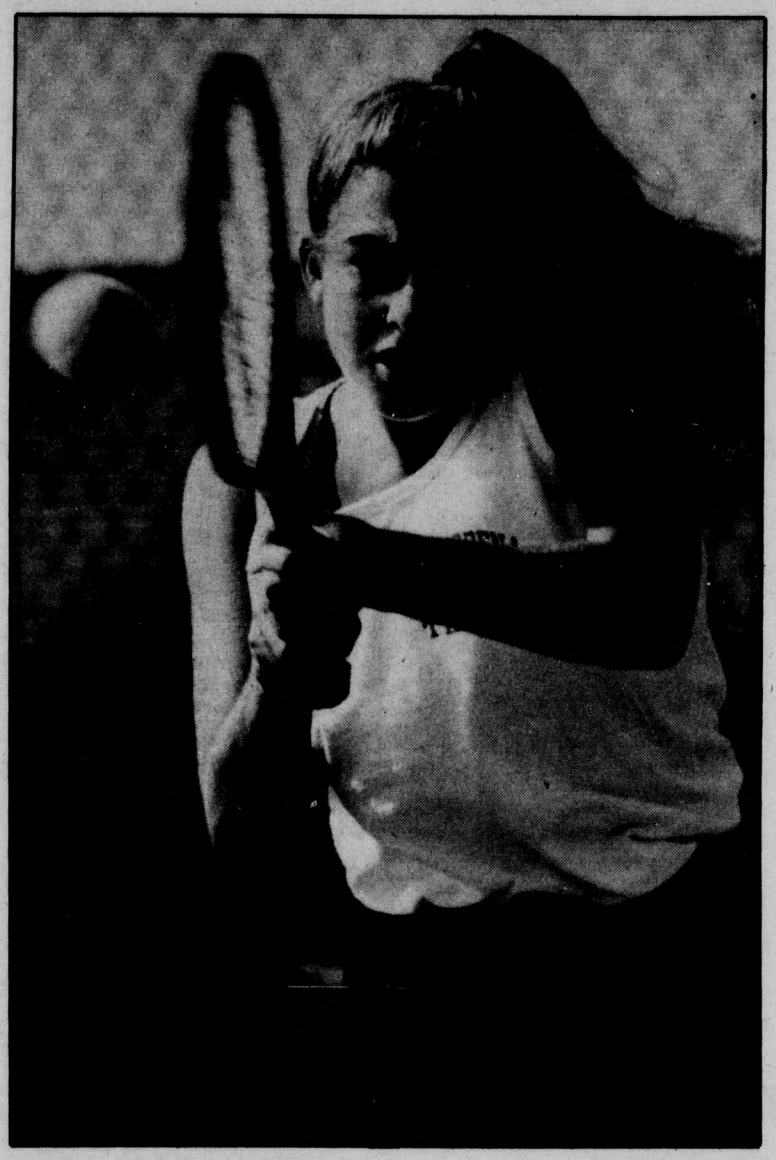
PLAYER OF THE YEAR

GIRLS TENNIS

WITHOUT A NET



Sam Gangwer/North County News

While adapting to a new style of play, El Modena's Brandi Freudenberg went 69-4 and was a semifinalist at the CIF Individual championships.

Change in style had Freudenberg up on high wire

By Lance Pugmire
North County News

Brandi Freudenberg first began taking tennis lessons as a 6-year-old — an age when most of her companions were more interested in Sesame Street, Barbie and Strawberry Shortcake.

"Back then, I was bigger than the racket, but the net was way taller than me," she said.

Now 16, Freudenberg recently capped her junior season at El Modena High by finishing 69-4 in singles play. The North County News has selected her as the All-County/North Girls Tennis Player of the Year.

Freudenberg helped the Vanguards win a second consecutive Century League championship by compiling a 30-0 regular season league record for the CIF Southern Section Division II quarterfinalists.

This, however, was quite a different season than Freudenberg's first two. As a freshman, she advanced to the Southern Section Individual semifinals and made it to the quarterfinals as a sophomore.

The change began in January when Freudenberg took a new private coach, Orange's Bill DeRango.

DeRango saw need for a major

Brandi Freudenberg

adjustment to Freudenberg's playing style. In the past, she could overpower opponents with her forehand. DeRango didn't mind that trend continuing, but he wanted her to play with more finesse.

"Before last year, I was a non-thinker," Freudenberg said. "Any ball I'd hit, I'd try to hit winners. I was starting to make more errors than winners. I started changing in the summer because if you plateau playing one way, you're done. You have to continue changing.

"I learned to set up my shots for a winner. It was really tough for me. It took a lot of patience, but any loss I took was worth what I'm getting now."

Her problems adapting to the finesse style would surface in matches against the area's elite players. In the Century League singles final, Villa Park freshman Faye DeVera defeated Freudenberg in three sets. After that, Valencia junior Jenny Gonzalez beat her in a non-high school tournament.

"I wasn't confident," Freudenberg admitted.

Sometime after that Century League finals loss, though, Freudenberg began feeling comfortable with the new style. At this year's Southern Section Individual tournament, she advanced easily to a quarterfinal match against the previously unbeaten Gonzales.

"Three weeks before, I had lost to her by playing my same old way," Freudenberg said. "I was fighting the instincts I'd been coached."

Freudenberg relied on her new style and defeated Gonzales (6-3, 6-1). She then lost to eventual champion Amanda Augustus of Peninsula (6-3, 6-3) in the semifinals.

Ranked nationally in the top 10 among players age 16, Freudenberg has attracted attention since her days as an infant.

"When she was nine months, she had her first job modeling," said Donna Freudenberg, Brandi's mother, who had her daughter placed in newspaper ads for department stores and a bank.

She shared the tennis stage this year with her freshman sister Holli, who played No. 3 singles.

"It was a very fun year and I got to share some quality bonding time with my sister," Freudenberg said.

Selecting All-County/North team a close call

By Rusty Evans
North County News

Perhaps the only competition in Northern Orange County tougher than that on the high school tennis courts this fall was the selection of the North County News' All-County/North Girls Tennis Team.

This was especially true in singles, where picking three first-team players who were particularly outstanding proved to be an exercise in advanced hair-splitting. The objective was to pick a team that could be put on the court for a regulation match: three singles players and three doubles teams.

The NCN staff compared records, consulted various varsity coaches from the North County, and considered who the few losses were dealt by. The result is a team that the North County News would put on the court against any high school team, anywhere.

Jenny Gonzalez of Valencia, Faye DeVera of Villa Park, and El Modena's Brandi Freudenberg, the All-County/North Player of the Year, have been picked as the elite singles members of the first team.

Freudenberg, with a new coach who totally changed the very successful style that made her a nationally ranked junior player, compiled a 69-4 record and reached the semifinals of the CIF Southern Section Individual Championships, where she handed Gonzalez both of her only two set losses of the season.

Gonzalez, a junior transfer from Paraguay, rolled up a remarkable record of 72-2, leading Valencia to the finals of the CIF Division VI team championships.

DeVera, a freshman with a 46-2 record, knocked off Freudenberg on her way to winning the Century League singles title.

Selecting three doubles teams was nearly as difficult. While the practice of pairing up singles players in doubles competition at league and CIF matches is widespread, the All-County/North duos are ones that excelled in doubles play throughout the fall.

Lindsay Fry and Jill Riley of Villa Park were nearly unbeatable. The pair mounted a 47-4 record together — a winning percentage of .922.

Brea Olinda's Beth St. Clair and Elizabeth Kozma had a record of 55-8 (.875) and reached the Orange League finals, where they were knocked off by singles players Renee Williams and Jessica Wilson of Valencia.

Jeannie Lee and Renee Zew of Sunny Hills were 29-11 together, winning the Freeway League doubles championship and reaching the second round of the CIF-SS championships.

The 1993 All-County/North Second Team is comprised of singles players Dana Rudolph of Sunny Hills, Rosary's Eleanor Luzano and Katella's Patty Villaroman, and the doubles teams of April Deerr/Katie Sundara of Savanna, Brooke Atwell/Jil Llewellyn of Esperanza and Anne Bialowas/Maia Nelson of Fullerton.

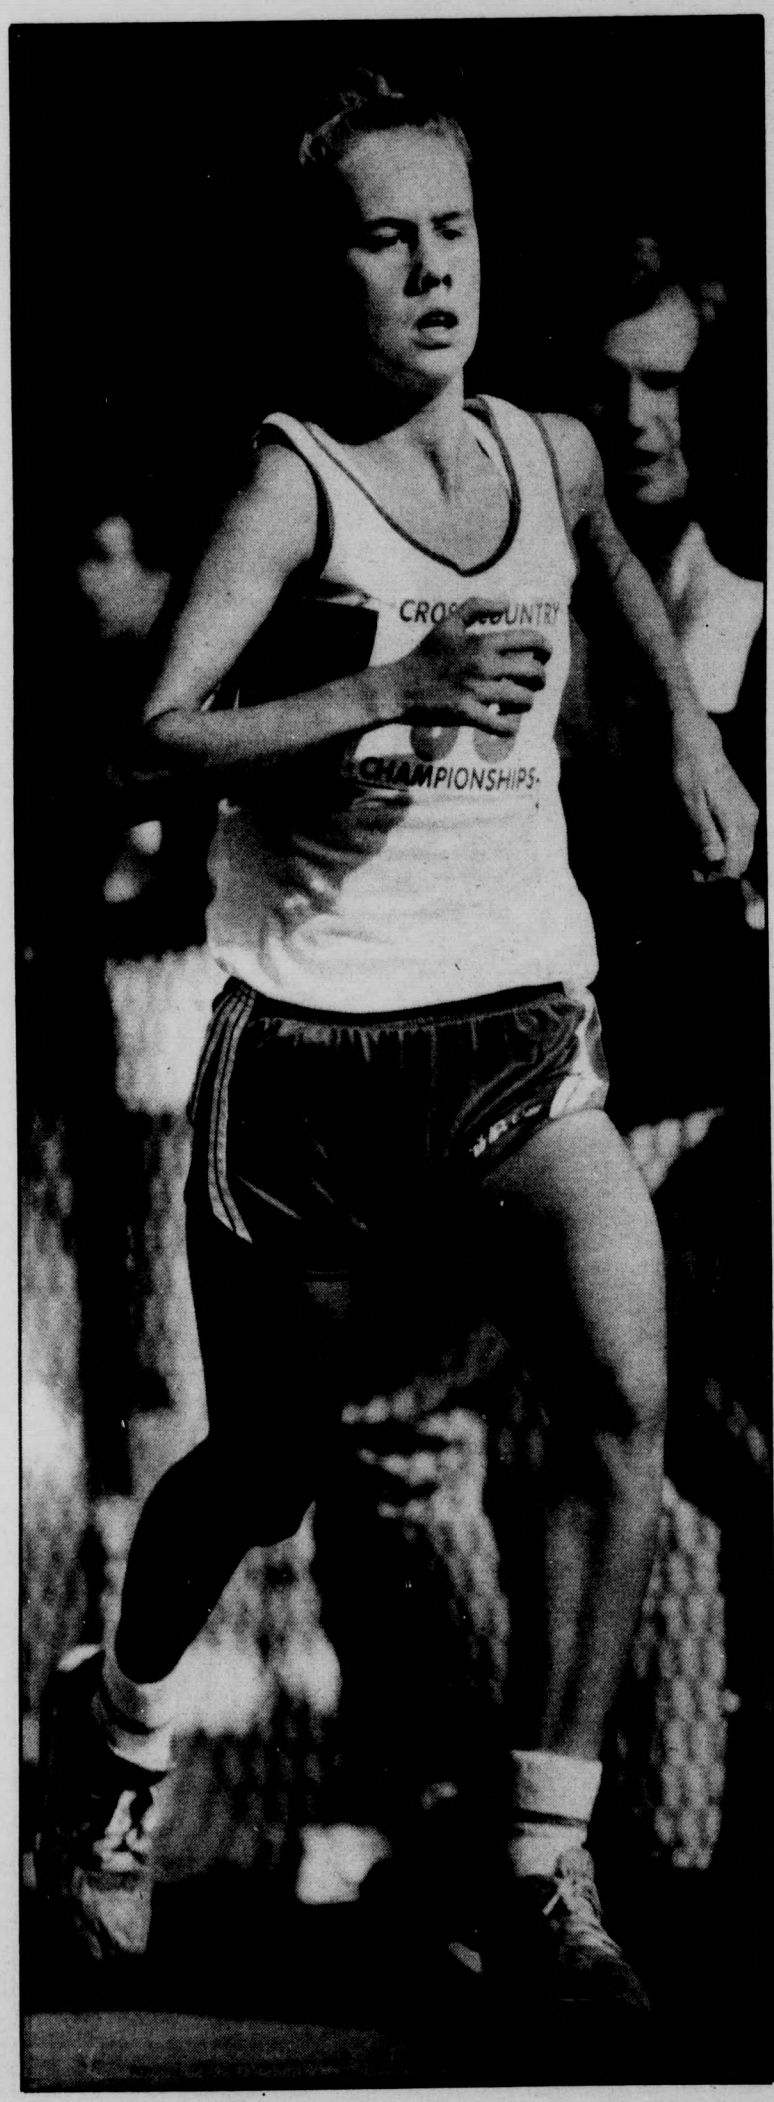
RUNNER OF THE YEAR

GIRLS CROSS COUNTRY



Jack Hancock/North County News

Carrie Garritson won CIF Southern Section and CIF State cross country titles representing Buena Park High this fall.

RUNAWAY CHOICE

By Bill Norris
North County News

Looking back on the season, one name immediately springs to mind as the best girls cross country runner in North Orange County: Carrie Garritson.

The list of accomplishments the Buena Park High senior has racked up is astonishing. She won the sweepstakes race at both the Orange County Championships and the Mt. San Antonio College Invitational. Her winning the Freeway League championship was inevitable. She ran the fastest time of any girl at the CIF Southern Section prelims, then won both the CIF-SS Division and CIF State Division II championship.

Then, to top it all off, she finished 17th with a time of 18 minutes, 18.4 seconds, in the Foot Locker Nationals last Saturday in San Diego.

For all her achievements this season, Garritson has been named the All-County/North Girls Cross Country Runner of the Year.

Garritson has basically run untouched this season. She clocked in at under the 17-minute mark at the Freeway League championships. Without constant competition, perhaps the toughest challenge she faced was staying motivated to win.

Carrie Garritson

"At the CIF Prelims, she ran an 18-flat and she was disappointed with it," said Buena Park girls cross country coach Dan Hirsch. "She said she felt like she was jogging after the first mile.

"She said she'd like to run a 17:30-40 in the finals (she ran a 18:12), but her problem is that she can't get pushed by anyone, so she has to do it all herself."

In fact, the closest anyone has come in a major race all year, other than the national races, was Canyon High's Kim Nelson at the CIF State Finals, and she finished 21 seconds behind Garritson.

Sometimes, her toughest competition comes from her brother, Jarrod, a sophomore at Buena Park.

"We run together. He could probably kick my butt if he wanted to. He just doesn't try as hard," she said.

Garritson started running when she was 8 years old and she hasn't stopped much since. She trains year-round, working low impact for about a month after the final race of the cross country season.

"My dad started me in running and it's grown on me ever since," Garritson said. "I enjoy it now because it relaxes you."

Garritson not only excels on the race course, but in the classroom as well. She carries a 4.0 grade point average, and has looked into the possibility of attending Stanford or Wisconsin.

She doesn't limit her running to just cross country. In the spring, she runs the two-mile race for the track and field team, and is considering running the mile this season. She also ran in the Los Angeles Marathon when she was 11, finishing with a time of 2 hours, 48 minutes and 18 seconds.

Other than running, Garritson spends little time participating in other sports.

"Sometimes I swim," she said. "I figure I'll stick to what I'm good at. I don't know how good I could be if I have to concentrate on two sports. I envy those who can do that."

And don't expect her to give up what she's good at for at least a few more years.

Five chosen as cream of the crop

All-County/North girls team tough to keep up with

By Bill Norris
North County News

What set the members of the 1993 All-County/North girls cross country team apart from other runners?

About 20 seconds, usually.

The five members of the first team selected by the North County News won three league titles and two CIF Southern Section titles among them. They made a grueling sport look easy.

Leading the list is Buena Park High's Carrie Garritson. Garritson breezed to the CIF Southern Section Division II-A and CIF State Division II championships in Division II. She also won the sweepstakes races at the Orange County Championships and Mt. San Antonio College Invitational.

How dominant was she? In the Freeway League Finals at Craig Park in November, she broke the 17-minute mark, finishing the race with an amazing time of 16:53.

Providing Garritson with her closest competition was Canyon's Kim Nelson. Nelson turned in the third-fastest time in Orange County with a time of 17:32. Nelson was closest to Garritson in the Division II CIF State Championship race, finishing 21 seconds behind the champ.

MVP — Garritson

Nelson also set a Century League record, becoming the only cross country runner, girl or boy, to finish undefeated in all four seasons.

Esperanza's strong pair of juniors Carrie Caulkins and Courtney Pugmire were practically inseparable at times on the course.

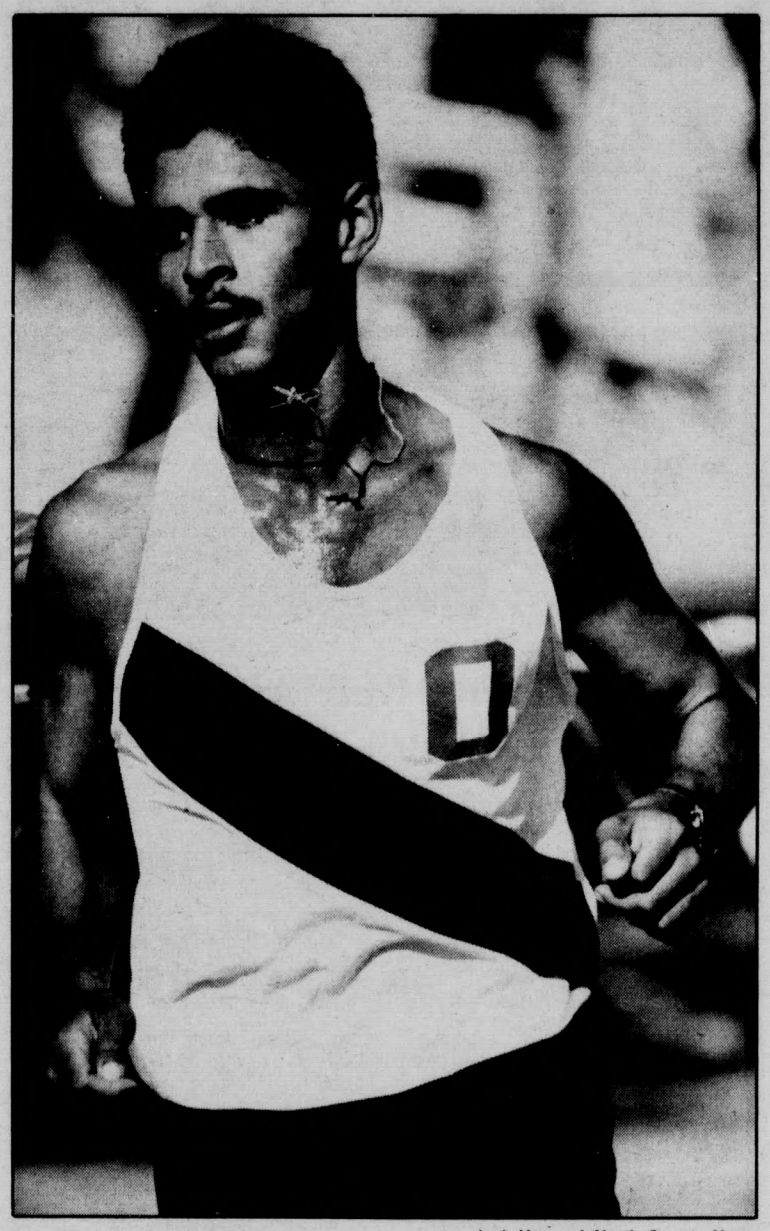
The pair finished with identical times of 19:13 at the Empire League championships. Only 17 seconds separated their best times during the year, giving Coach Rich Medellin a duo that he'll be able to build around next year.

Rounding out the first team is El Modena junior Tara Whitfield. Whitfield was the leading runner on the Vanguards' team that took first place at the CIF Southern Section Division II-A championship. Whitfield finished second in the race, just over a minute behind race champion Garritson.

Selected as members of the All-County/North second team are: Kennedy; Laura Flatauer of Canyon; Kelly Daucher of Brea Olinda; Laurie Juranek of Orange Lutheran; and Jenny Titus of Esperanza.

RUNNER OF THE YEAR

BOYS CROSS COUNTRY



Jack Hancock/North County News

Jaime Martinez of Orange High was Orange County's dominant runner this fall, winning numerous invitational races, as well as the Century League individual championship. He placed fourth at the CIF Southern Section Division I-A race at Mt. San Antonio College and finished second at the CIF State.

TRAIL BLAZING

Every victory by Martinez a win for his people

By Greg Mascio
North County News

Jaime Martinez was never supposed to be this popular. There were just too many factors going against him. He was shy, quiet, and most of all, a cross country runner.

Typically, a cross country runner's popularity at most high schools is equal to that of a surprise algebra quiz.

The role of campus icon is usually saved for the star quarterback, the 3-point shooter, the home run hitter.

But on the Orange High campus, Jaime Martinez, cross country runner, has risen to celebrity status.

"He gets standing ovations at assemblies, and that's before I even call him up," said Orange cross country coach Edward Cantu. "Everybody knows him at Orange High. Nobody will ever harass Jaime. He's protected. Jaime is Jaime."

Martinez's status at the school even extends beyond the boundries of mere athletic standout/celebrity. A byproduct of all the numerous course records, Century League titles, and invitationals won as a junior and this year as a senior, is the enormous attention he's received through the media.

According to Martinez, each piece written, each story that sheds a good light on himself, is a triumph not only on a personal level, but a cultural one as well.

Jaime Martinez

"I think it really helps create a more positive point of view on Hispanics. It shows we're doing something positive," said Martinez, who won the CIF Southern Section I-A individual title as a junior and was fourth this fall. "It's nice to have something positive written about Hispanics because sometimes people only hear the bad things.

"To me it is important. It's good for other Hispanics to see someone of their same nationality having something good written about them, not that they're shooting someone or vandalizing. I'm doing something positive and hopefully they can too. Some people think they don't have alternatives, but everybody is good at something. I found my one thing I'm good at. I'm glad I did."

And ever since Martinez discovered running at the end of his sophomore year, he's flourished in nearly all facets of life.

His grade-point average has risen from 2.2 to 3.1 during that time and the shy, soft-spoken kid of two years ago is now a well-known role model today.

"It's amazing, especially for a cross country runner," Martinez said. "Before, I didn't have that many friends. It was quiet, simpler. Now I'm getting all this attention, and it's nice. But handling it is hard sometimes.

"But I always try to make time for everybody. People tell me I haven't changed, and I hope that's true. I'm still a shy person, I just talk a little more now, that's all.

"The ovations (at the assemblies) are neat. It's nice. It touches me. A lot of people tell me that happens because I don't let all this get to my head. I talk to people that nobody else would. I talked to some kid (last week) that nobody talks to. But he's just shy like I used to be, and he's from another state. I just started talking to him and we talked for a long time. It was nice."

Last weekend when Martinez traveled to San Diego for the National Meet, Cantu asked if he would mind bringing an Orange student, Rudolpho Ramirez, along with him, to act as a "brother" of sorts to Ramirez, who is relatively new to the country and unfamiliar with the world of athletics.

As usual, Martinez, the seasoned role model, accepted.

"I just wanted someone like Rudolpho, who's not into athletics and has had to work real hard to make it in the classroom, to see what Jaime has accomplished," Cantu said. "I asked Jaime if it was OK and he was totally supportive of it. He understands what kind of role model he is. And he's not only a role model to Hispanics, but to white kids and black kids as well. He's amazing."

Martinez leads elite All-County/North cross country team

By Greg Mascio
North County News

With one of the finest Orange County runners in recent memory as its anchor, the 1993 All-County/North Boys Cross Country Team selected by the North County News boasts a number of course records, numerous league championships, and considerable CIF status among the accomplishments of its members.

Despite waiting until his junior year to begin his cross country career, Orange High's Jaime Martinez emerged as the best long distance runner in the entire county in his short time in the sport.

This year, the senior capped a glorious career with the Panthers by winning nearly every race in sight. After placing fourth at the CIF meet, Martinez placed second at the state meet this season and was the West's top runner at the national meet last season.

According to Orange coach Edward Cantu, Martinez's late beginning in cross country may have aided in his success.

"He's still hungry. Kids tend to train so much at an early age that they get burned out. But Jaime never ran before and that was never an issue," Cantu said. "His best years are still ahead of him."

When asked if Martinez was the best runner he's ever coached in his 11 years at Orange, Cantu replied;

"Have I had people with his talent before? Yes. Have I ever had anybody with his talent, desire, committment, and personality before? No."

Joining Martinez on the first team is a pair of runners from Katella, Mike Moreno and Delphino Resendiz, and a La Habra duo, Brendon Mahon and Charles Gatchell.

Moreno won the CIF Division II-A championship, ranked second in Orange County behind Martinez, and finished fifth at the state meet.

Along with winning the Empire League title, Moreno, along with Resendiz, helped lead the Knights to their second consecutive CIF team title.

"In my mind he's probably the most — and this is including Mike Love last year — outstanding cross country or distance runner to ever compete at this school," Katella coach Dave Wilson said of Moreno. "He had the chance to learn from the the great ones like Love, so he had that edge over everyone else. He had a tremendous work ethic. He's dedicated and has a natural desire to succeed."

Resendiz could have been a star if he wasn't on the same team or in the same league as Moreno, according to Wilson.

"On any other team or in any other league, he would be the class of it," Wilson said of Resendiz, a senior. "From his sophomore year on, he made himself what he is today. He works hard and he refuses to get beat."

At La Habra, the Highlanders had the top two runners in the Freeway League in Mahon and Gatchell.

Mahon won the league title for the third consecutive year, and clinched it with what La Habra coach Ralph Winkleman said was Mahon's best performance of the year.

"He ran his best race that day," Winkleman said of Mahon's time of 15:07 at Craig Park in Fullerton. "He's been one of the team captains for three years and he will be missed."

Gatchell, a junior, will be back next year and it looks as if he's ready to take over as the Freeway League's top runner considering his second place finish behind Mahon at the league finals.

Winkleman says Gatchell, who finished eighth at the CIF finals, made great strides compared to what he was capable of doing as a sophomore.

"He really dedicated himself over the summer and he wanted to be the best he can be," Winkleman said. "He's a tough runner."

The All-County/North Second Team includes Phil Sitner and Jeremy Mordock of Villa Park, O.C. Franck of Servite, Sonora's Alex Gonzalez, and Brea Olinda's Brett Saari.

Cyrus is NCN Girls Tennis Coach of Year

By Lance Pugmire
North County News

John Cyrus teaches Language Arts and Psychology at Valencia High. During the fall weekday afternoons when he'd drive to Northern Placentia to instruct the El Dorado High girls tennis team, Cyrus transformed the tennis court into his classroom.

"I like poetry and I like giving the players some thoughts out there," said Cyrus, 43, selected by the North County News as the All-County/North Girls Tennis Coach of the Year.

"They're going to have to deal with some pressure so they can learn from how people have dealt with it in the past. With psychology, I'd just like to be able to guide them a little bit — not only with tennis, but everything else that goes on in a teenager's life."

El Dorado's fourth different coach in four years, Cyrus guided the Golden Hawks to a 16-6 record, a second-place finish in the Empire League and an appearance in the CIF Southern Section Division III semifinals.

Cyrus was named the team's coach at the last minute, actually. The former Valencia boys basketball coach (1990-93), he has coached private tennis lessons for 12 years. Knowing this, El Dorado girls athletic director Sally Reclusado talked Cyrus into accepting the opening.

"It was just a situation where I was out of coaching and was looking for a change," Cyrus said. "The neat part about it was that the switch meant I was still in the same (Placentia-Yorba Linda Unified) school district. It was a little tough getting out of my classes on time and yet still being able to get to the El Dorado courts before the players arrived there.

"When I got here, with the late start and everything, it was like I could hear the players thinking, 'Oh, man, here's another one.' "

El Dorado faced other adversity.

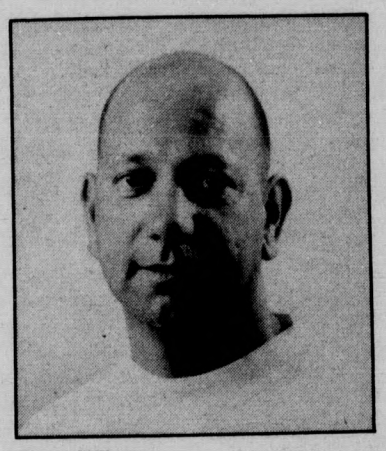
Wilson top cross country coach

By Greg Mascio
North County News

Mike Cochrane says Dave Wilson's positive personality turned the Katella High boys cross country team into the two-time CIF championship powerhouse it is today.

"He brought a lot of youthful enthusiasm," Cochrane, the Knights' track coach and assistant cross country coach, said of Wilson, the Knights' head coach. "He worked hard to instill a great deal of pride in the runners. He brought in the "Knight Pride" concept and that's been somewhat of a rallying cry."

Thanks to Wilson, as well as Cochrane and the rest of the staff, the Knights have plenty to be proud of. This year's CIF championship was the team's second in a row and their Empire League title was the



Dave Wilson

Knights' fourth in Wilson's six years as coach.

The success, and pride that has been a result of it, is something Wilson hoped to bring when he took the job.

"I'm a Katella grad ('79) and to be able to come back and coach, you have the same pride you had as a student and you want to instill that into the kids," Wilson said.

"You've got to realize that cross country is a sport where it's all desire and integrity. Not everybody can do it so I just tell the kids to have pride in what they do."

And according to Cochrane, when you have a coach like Wilson it makes it a lot easier for the runners.

"He helps the kids so much with their mental attitude with his positive personality," Cochrane said. "He's built a confidence in the kids and he makes them realize that with all the hard work we've put in, we can be successful."

CYRUS

FROM 32

Freshman singles standout Michelle Weisz missed the season with a knee injury and senior Monica Harsey was absent because of emergency surgery.

But Cyrus kept his team disciplined.

"They hadn't expected what I was trying to give them every day: Hard work and a lot of running," he said. "We run all the time. And by the end of the year, they were doing all that. The last few practices were great, what every coach wants. The girls said some nice things about me at the banquet, which is nice, but that sometimes can be rhetoric. Watching the girls, that's where I saw their sincerity."

Cyrus is a self-made tennis coach. He didn't play on the high school or college level, but he enjoyed the game and sought information from some of the area's better teachers: Academy instructor Chuck Boyle, Redlands coach Jim Verdick, former UC Irvine and Newport Dukes coach Eric Patton and Hank Lloyd.

From them, he learned the importance of cross training, videotape analysis and game plans. Cyrus, who has a backyard tennis court, is so busy with his private lessons that he has a waiting list.

"I put a lot of information together," he said. "I glean as much as I can from all the people I talk to and I'll still go and take lessons. You need to keep learning."

He passed along the inspirational words of John Wooden ("Pyramid of Success"), Rudyard Kipling ("If") and The Bible among others. Some pieces said, "Nothing is not important," and others said, "When the debts are low/And the funds are high/Rest if you will/But don't quit."

It took a 15-3 victory by top-seeded Harvard Westlake to finally quell El Dorado's bid for a Southern Section championship.

"I could see that the kids gave it all they had because they were as dejected as I was," Cyrus said.

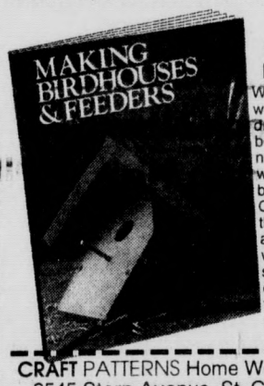
A THOUGHT FOR EVERYONE WHO RESENTS SITTING AT A DESK EIGHT HOURS A DAY.

PROJECT-OF-THE-WEEK

by Craft Patterns™

BARN BIRD FEEDER PLAN
This winter, bring the birds to your yard with this barn style feeder. It has a feed capacity of 20 pounds. Filling is a convenient process because the entire feeder is hinged to the base. Just tilt it back and the glass divider becomes a large funnel into the feed storage area. Overall dimensions are 16" high, 21" wide, 14" deep. Full-size patterns make part layout and painting easy. (#551...$5.95). Bird Feeder Packet: This group of plans contains designs for eight bird feeders. The barn bird feeder plan is included as well as plans for a chalet bird feeder, feeder with silo, large-capacity feeder, trolley feeder and three other designs. (#2038...$12.95).



MAKING BIRDHOUSES & FEEDERS BOOK
With expert instructions, working photos and detailed drawings, this 128-page book covers everything you need to build the finest wooden structures for the birds you want to attract. Over 40 designs geared for the beginning woodworker are included—from simple window feeders to three-story nesting boxes. Strategies for deterring predators are also included. (#6244-J...$12.95)

HOME OF THE WEEK

Presented by The Prudential California Realty

It's a magnificent Mediterranean in a secluded gated community in Anaheim Hills. It is also surrounded by rolling hills. From the leaded glass entry doors and on through the home not the slightest attention to detail has been spared.

There are 4 spacious bedrooms, formal dining room plus a nook, 3.5 baths, a large bonus room upstairs, enormous gourmet kitchen and a huge family room. A library/den is located on the main floor.

Extra amenities include a built-in security system and central vacuum. It also has a 3-car garage.

The 4,008-square-foot floor plan is highly upgraded. There is fresh paint throughout and new light fixtures and carpeting.

This is a bank-owned property and the goal is for a fast sale and closing. Bank financing is offered with 10 percent down and great terms for the $559,900 asking price.

For additional information or a review of the home, call Vicki Salyer, at (714) 998-8040, ext. 329.

RTC improves asset sales process and image

Patrick Veling's
PROPERTY LINES

On my recent trip to the National Association of Realtors convention in Miami Beach, I spent a great deal of time on the exhibit floor. Most exhibits were no different from the year before — except one.

The Resolution Trust Corporation (RTC) was at the convention in full force. The exhibit included a large, seemingly expensive display booth, plenty of promotional materials, and a staff of six or seven friendly, knowledgeable RTC sales professionals.

"Done any business with the RTC?" one of them asked as I passed the booth.

"Are you kidding?" I quickly replied. "I might if your reputation were different."

"You must be from California," she said. An uncanny observation because my name tag said that I was from Oklahoma, the state in which my client's firm is located.

I had to stop and mention the horrible things I had heard about the RTC: inept asset management staff, unanswered offers for purchase, declined offers that should have been accepted.

"We went through all of that in Texas and New England," she told me. "Give our California people time, they'll get their act together." So began one of the more interesting conversations of my entire trip.

A little background is appropriate here:

The Resolution Trust Corporation was established by Congress in 1989 to manage and resolve failed savings and loan associations. When the RTC is appointed as receiver or conservator for a failed association, it takes control of all assets, including any real estate owned or taken back by the association. The RTC also acquires real estate that is foreclosed after the association's failure.

The RTC's mission is to dispose of assets in a manner that:

1) Maximizes returns and minimizes losses

2) Minimizes the impact on local real estate and financial markets, and

3) Maximizes the preservation of the availability and affordability of residential property for low and moderate income individuals.

The RTC has established regional sales centers to accomplish these tasks. And — like most new ventures — the local office of the RTC has had a bumpy start.

Every real estate agent and broker has heard the horror stories mentioned earlier. Most have resisted submitting offers on RTC properties because of them. Few actually knew anybody who had spoken firsthand of these gut-wrenching experiences.

The RTC is now in a major promotional effort to win over real estate professionals and their clients. The RTC wants to do business with you and me and recently revised sales policies to prove it.

One example is that all offers for purchase must now be responded to within five business days. Another example is that while the RTC prefers cash sales, it will finance the transaction as long as it meets a few basic criteria:

The down payment should be 25 percent, although 15 percent may be considered and approved. The loan term will likely be five to seven years, amortized 30 years or less, with a balloon payment due at maturity.

These are just a few of the interesting hints real estate professionals and their clients can pick up by reading one of the many informative RTC publications. The best is a 32-page concise guide titled "The Complete Guide to the RTC."

The guide and a variety of other brochures may be obtained free of charge by calling 1-800-431-0600. Brokers interested in contracting their listing services to the RTC should call 1-800-537-7355 for an application package.

Having successfully met its charter in other regions of the United States, the RTC sees California as the next big challenge. It has too many local assets in its inventory and expects more to be added before the market downturn ends.

With RTC's new attitude and savvy real estate professionals, investors will do well to fully investigate RTC assets.

The RTC is serious about selling local real estate, in spite of what we may have heard. But they can't succeed without local real estate brokers, agents and buyers. That means outstanding opportunities lay ahead.

Consumer confidence key to economy, real estate market

"Consumer confidence will be the key to overall economic improvement this coming year and the next," according to Dennis J. Jacobe, managing director of the Financial Research Institute in Washington. Jacobe was one of three real estate experts participating in the "Annual Economic Forecasting Panel" at the Appraisal Institute's 1993 Symposium in Chicago.

Panelists agreed that consumer confidence, an integral part of the economy, undeniably influences interest rates, inflation, and ultimately the real estate market. Herbert C. Smith, professor and chair of the Department of Finance, University of Florida, predicted that next year's interest and inflation rates would remain at current low levels, and the unemployment rate would decrease. However, he cautioned, "While national economic averages are impressive, they tend to disguise the vast differences in regional and local economic conditions across the country, particularly in the West and Northeast."

The Financial Research Institute reported findings from the FDIC's Survey of Real Estate Trends which concluded, "continued weakness (in the commercial and residential real estate markets) in the Northeast but clear signs that conditions in this region have bottomed out with over half the examiners and liquidators surveyed reporting better housing markets and almost one fourth seeing improvements in commercial real estate. In contrast, conditions in California were not only weak but appeared to be getting worse. Virtually no improvement was detected."

Jacobe observed that confidence levels varied with regional real estate conditions. "While the regional picture indicates increasing consumer confidence in the Midwest and Southwest, optimism in the West has continued to drop," he said.

Commenting on the current financial sector, Jacobe said, "For a long time finanacial institutions were rebuilding their balance sheets and were not expanding lending. We have now reached a point where most institutions feel they can expand lending again. I think that's a signicant change in terms of attitude."

James E. Gibbons, president of Sackman-Gibbons Associates in East Meadow, N.Y., asserted that the resurgence of the Real Estate Investment Trust (REIT), a corporation or trust that combines the capital of many investors to acquire or provide financing for all forms of real estate, indicates a healthier outlook for both commercial and residential real estate sectors. "I see REITs as a positive impact, a way to break a logjam, or 'credit crunch,' getting movement into the market. Billions of dollars have gone into that field within the last six to nine months — that's money to make real estate more liquid." However, he cautioned, "anything that has blown up that fast has the potential for probems (in the future)."

Lyon Co. breaks ground for huge apartment complex

Project largest of its kind in Orange County

William Lyon Co. has broken ground on what will become Orange County's largest apartment project and the homebuilder's most ambitious multifamily housing development.

The Newport Beach company began grading for the first phase of the 1,442-unit Park Place project on Michelson Drive in Irvine more than a week ago. Lyon Co. plans to bring 216 units to market in 1995.

Lyon Co. officials have likened the Park Place complex to a minicity. The project's four-story apartments will be built on two levels of underground parking. Plans include a 35,000-square-foot recreation facility with a gym, an indoor basketball court and two racquetball courts. Other frills include a dry cleaner, a convenience store, a library, a lounge, a bar, meeting rooms and a pool.

The company is one of few developers that believe Orange County's lackluster apartment market can accommodate more units. Irvine Apartment Communities Inc., the public spinoff of the Irvine Co.'s apartment portfolia, have begun entitlement work on two apartment projects in Irvine. IAC plans to develop five projects totaling 2,100 units in Orange County in the next few years.

Lyon Co. officials likened the Park Place complex to a minicity. The project's four-story apartments will be built on two levels of underground parking.

Lyon and IAC are betting that the apartment market will be in better shape in a year. Apartment occupancies in the county have inched upward in the past year, but rents haven't kept pace with inflation, and landlords are still cutting plenty of deals. Also, with marginal job growth, some apartment analysts say there's little to increase demand for new units.

"It's at the upper end of risk," Pam Wooldridge said in reference to Park Place. Wooldridge, a principal with the Research Network Group in Laguna Hills, conducts annual surveys of the county's apartment market.

Lyon Co. officials are confident that there's a market for Park Place.

"We wouldn't build them unless we didn't think there was a market for them," said Rick Sherman, general counsel and spokesman for Lyon Co.

The Masters named 'Project of the Year'

The Masters — Placentia's new gated community overlooking the Alta Vista Golf Course — has been awarded "Project of the Year" by judges at the 11th annual Elan Awards. The honor was accompanied by a second award for outstanding architechtural design for the community's Plan 2 model.

The Elan awards recognize the best new home projects in Orange, Los Angeles and Ventura counties for their design, utility and value. They are judged by a panel of building industry experts representing home builders, architects, interior designers, suppliers, marketers, financiers and the media.

"We are very excited to receive the award," said Jon Savage, Masters sales representative.

The Masters opened earlier this summer and is the only development of new homes in north Orange County located adjacent to a golf course.

Enhancing the custom-home ambience of the neighborhood, The Masters features distinctive exteriors in traditional, early California architectural style. All of the homes in the private community are arranged in two stories and range in size from 2,410 to 2,747 square feet.

The Masters' three floor plans cater to growing families and move-up buyers. Architectural elements enhancing each home include unique entries, soaring ceilings, elegant window patterning and opulent master bedroom suites.

Plan One, with 2,410 square feet, opens with 18-foot volume ceilings in its formal living and dining rooms, while the family room is encased by windows. Also downstairs is a roomy kitchen with nook and a powder room. Upstairs, the Plan One's hallway bridge separates the master suite from the "children's wing" of three oversized bedrooms and a compartmentalized bathroom. The fourth bedroom can be converted into an optional loft room for extra family living space.

With 2,572 square feet, Plan Two, which was awarded the best "Architechtural Design" by Elan judges, features four spacious bedrooms and three full bathrooms. The formal living and dining rooms with high ceilings and clerestory windows make an impact by providing a view through to the rear of the home and beyond. These formal areas are complemented by the layout of the oversized family room, and provides an atmosphere for relaxing family time. The kitchen has a handy island work space and a nook surrounded by windows and a sliding glass door. The downstairs bedroom has its own full bath, and may be converted to a den. Atop the wide hallway landing are the private master suite with sitting area and walk-in closet, two additional over-sized bedrooms and a full bath with dual sinks.

The Masters' largest floor plan with 2,747 square feet, the Plan Three, offers up to five bedrooms and three bathrooms and has an upstairs bridge at its center. The home's flexibility is demonstrated upstairs where the master suite can be enlarged to include a spacious and private retreat — or the space can be used for an optional sixth bedroom. All three upstairs bedrooms are over-sized, and one can be converted to an optional bonus room. The Plan Three kitchen, with a center island work area, joins a sunny nook and an extra-large family room at the rear of the home, creating an open family living area. The formal living and dining rooms are open to the bridge walkway above.

Homes on the golf course have second-story decks off the master bedroom.

To visit The Masters, exit the Riverside (91) Freeway at Tustin Avenue and head north. Continue past Chapman where the street's name changes to Rose Drive and turn left on Alta Vista. The Masters will be on the right. From the Orange (57) Freeway, exit at Chapman Avenue and go east. Continue to Kraemer Boulevard and turn left; go to the first signal, which is Alta Vista, and turn right. The Masters will be on the left. The sales office is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. For more information, call (714) 528-5011.

Presley wins playhouse award

The Presley Companies, Southern California Division, in conjunction with Disneyland, garnered four top awards for its miniature replica of Minnie Mouse's house, one of nine structures created by Orange County builders and auctioned to the public in "Project Playhouse," an industry-wide effort on behalf of the Building Industry Association's HomeAid program.

Reviewed by a panel of judges, Presley's entry captured the program's highest honor, the Grand Award for best overall playhouse, which automatically enters the builder in the special award category of the Gold Nugget awards competition at the 1994 Pacific Coast Builders Conference and Remodelers Show.

Complete and move-in-ready for the holidays with even the front-yard landscaping installed, three buy now-priced homes are all that remain available in the current phase of Moonshadow single-family homes in Placentia.

Moonshadow homes ready move-in in time for holidays

Three new "buy now" homes are all that remain in the current phase close-out of single-family homes at Moonshadow in Placentia. The homes are complete and ready for holiday move-in.

With prices starting at $228,490, home shoppers can enjoy the holidays in a new home following close of escrow. Underscoring the savings, buyers can also lock-in their interest rates at 25-year, record lows and not worry about construction delays or possible rate increases.

The developer has already paid for all up-front improvements so there are no hidden Mello-Roos fees.

Long-life, fire-resistant concrete tile roofs, along with covered entries and porches, complement the contemporary Mediterranean styling of the two-story homes. Concrete block side and rear-yard walls, gas and electric outlets for the patio areas, and sectional roll-up garage doors with automatic openers and remote controls further keynote the features of the homes.

In additon to two available, 1,800-square-foot "Morning Star" plans that provide a full array of formal and casual living areas, plus two upstairs family bedrooms and an expansive master suite, the third home offers optimal veratility in 2,335 square feet of living space.

Presented in a traditional style with the dining room formally separated from the living room and an island worktop/breakfast bar serving the kitchen, nook and family room, the larger "Evening Star" design is further highlighted by an upstairs computer/music alcove, a large sitting area for the master suite and a spacious activity room that can be converted into a fourth bedroom.

All adjoined by garden-view family rooms and breakfast nooks, the kitchens are gourmet-prepared. Hand-set ceramic-tiled countertops with tiled edges, hand-finished oak cabinets with washable interiors and double roller-glide drawers further add to Moonshadow's value.

Ceramic-tiled foyers and wood-burning fireplaces in the living room add special touches, enhanced by the custom-like detailing of solid oak staircase balustrades and railings, raised-panel "Colonist" interior doors, hand-troweled ceilings and rounded-corner drywalling.

Each master suite bathing/dressing area is complete with a dual-basin vanity, oval Ultra tub and a separate tiled shower. Over-sized, walk-in closets for the master suites expand upon an abundance of storage space and every home provides for the convenience of an interior laundry room, direct garage access and central air conditioning.

Futher savings are offered from Moonshadow's exceeding energy code requirements, an amenity that led to the development receiving the Southern California Gas Company's "Five Star" Award.

Dual-paned wiondows in key locations, extra-heavy insulation, glass fireplace doors, high-efficiency water heaters and programmable set-back thermostats all help to reduce energy consumption and costs. As an added bonus, Morning Star plans include active solar watera heating systems.

MAME to unveil fulfillment of a boy's wish

Along with seeing home building industry professionals honored for their outstanding achievements, everyone who attends the MAME (Major Achievement in Merchandising Excellence) '93 Awards ceremony at the Disneyland Hotel next February will help to fulfill the special wish of a young leukemia patient named Stewart.

Through a cooperative effort between the SMC/SC MAME committee and the Make-A-Wish Foundation of Orange County Inc., a percentage of the revenue from every ticket purchased for the annual awards celebration will go toward making Stewart's cherished wish — a private bedroom of his own — come true.

Just 11-years-old, Stewart lives in Buena Park with his single father, Russell, and his brother and sister. For quite some time, Stewart has had to share a bedroom with his teen-age brother. This, at times, can be emotional and difficult for both boys since Stewart is often ill from chemotherapy and needs to be alone and resting in a quiet, comfortable place.

Taking some of the first steps to make this wish come true, Russ Leeman of Los Angeles-based Leeman Construction and Consulting, has been appointed as the construction coordinator for the project.

Ernie Vasquez, vice president of Costa Mesa-based McCarland, Vasquez and Partners Inc., along with his architect and co-worker Bryan, have volunteered time to create conceptual drawings for the new bedroom and will present them to Russell and his son very soon.

With the plans selected, Robert Gallagher, building division manager of the city of Buena Park, will personally make sure that all city ordinances and requirements regarding room additions are met and approved in a timely manner so construction on Stewart's new bedroom can begin as soon as possible.

Executive vice president of the Make-A-Wish Foundation, attorney Jerry Bame, and dedicated volunteers, Jeffrey and Angela Smetanka, are overseeing every aspect of this wish fulfillment, a heart-warming project that is being videotaped and documented by Peter M. Mayer Productions to be shown during the MAME Awards presentation.

REAL ESTATE BRIEFS

Elrod heads Realtors

Robert H. Elrod, an Orlando, Fla., Realtor, has been elected president of the National Association of Realtors for 1994. The election was held during the association's recent 86th annual Convention and Trade Exposition.

Elrod, a Realtor since 1972, is president of Atkins, Elrod & Co in Orlando, a firm specializing in residential and commercial real estate brokerage.

Other officers elected were Edmond G. Woods Jr., of Holyoke, Mass., president-elect; Arthur L. Godi of Stockton, Calif., first vice president; Dale Colby of Covina, Calif, treasurer; and Russell K. Booth of Salt Lake City, Utah, vice president and liaison to committees.

Lending is up

The slowdown in construction lending appears to be leveling off, according to a report released last week by La Jolla-based Datequick Information Systems.

The good news for Orange County is that funding from August to October increased significantly. Dataquick reports construction lending during those three months jumped 42 percent, to $222 million, from a year ago.

A banner year?

Richard Loughlin, chief executive of Irvine-based Century 21 Real Estate Corp., says 1994 will be the best year for residential real estate since 1970. Loughlin bases his prediction on the lowest mortgage rates in 25 years, moderate home prices and first-time homebuyer demand.

He picks Texas, Colorado and the Midwest as home-selling hot spots.

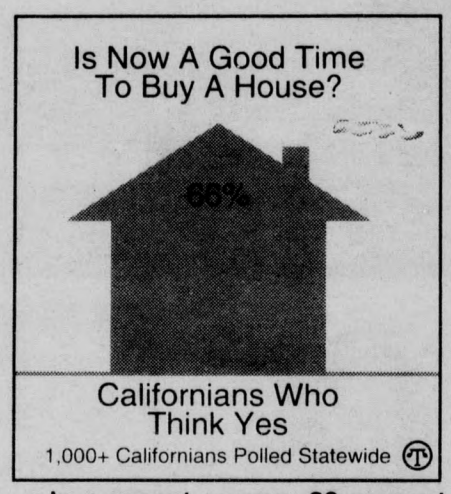
Poll shows renters ready to fulfill American dream

Californians rank the ability to own a home at the top of the list of their most important personal dreams. Nearly all renters in the state would like to own a home some day and 28 percent of renters are either actively looking or considering buying within the next 12 months.

These were among the principal findings of a recent survey conducted by Yankelovich Partners who queried more than 1,000 Californians statewide. The survey was conducted on behalf of the California League of Savings Institutions, and reported by Mario J. Antoci, chairman of the California League and chairman and CEO of American Savings Bank.

Antoci cited the finding that 66 percent of the more than 1,000 Californians who responded to the poll think now is a good time to buy. "Homeownership remains an overiding goal for Californians, cutting across all age, income, racial and neighborhood lines," he said.

Most Californians are optimistic about the economic outlook for themselves and their families. Some 74 percent described their own situation as very or fairly good and 29 percent think their situations will improve in the next 12 months.



In a recent survey, 66 percent of Californians polled think now is a good time to buy a house.

Fully 50 percent more California households can afford a median-priced home today than five years ago, yet many people who can now afford a home still believe homeownership is beyond their reach. Nearly half the renters cited affordability and high prices as the main obstacles to buying.

The California League of Savings Institutions is the statewide trade association for California's savings industry. For more information on new-home ownership and financing opportunities, call a local realtor or mortgage expert.

HOUSE HUNTING HINTS

Tips on getting the first mortgage

Many families are finding the home of their dreams and are now ready to apply for their first mortgage. Like many first-time homebuyers, they may find the process a bit confusing.

Here are some tips from experts that may help open the door to a new home:

1. Take a look at a family debt level — car payments, installment payments and other loans. Reduce them as much as possible before seeing a lender. Also, keep credit card charges and balances as low as possible. Lenders will help figure how much mortgage individuals can afford in addition to other credit payments. Keep in mind that credit reporting agencies report two to three months behind, so start the process soon.

2. How much house that can be affordable will depend on the amount of the down payment. First-time buyers will find that their principal resource will be savings as well as gifts and other income sources. If savings haven't accumulated much, funds for a down payment may have to be set aside from a paycheck.

3. If down payments of 10 percent or 20 percent are not available, don't fret. Many mortgage companies offer special programs with as little as 3 percent up front cash needed.

4. Ask a lender to help determine what size mortgage is affordable. Lenders generally like to see monthly housing costs (including mortgage payments, property taxers, insurance) total no more than 28 percent of a monthly before-tax income. Remember, lenders also will consider existing debt in determining how large a mortgage they will grant.

There are things you can do to prepare financially that will help make the home-buying process smoother.

5. Before applying for a mortgage, it is a good idea to make a check of the family's credit rating. For a small fee a request may be made to the family's credit profile from a credit reporting agency. If errors are found, they can be corrected before applying for a mortgage. Most lenders prefer a clean credit record, with no bills past due more than 30 days in the last two years.

6. When applying for a mortgage, it will be necessary to bring certain personal papers to the lender. Be sure the last two year's of tax returns are among these papers. Also include recent paycheck stubs, down payment source and information on any other loans outstanding.

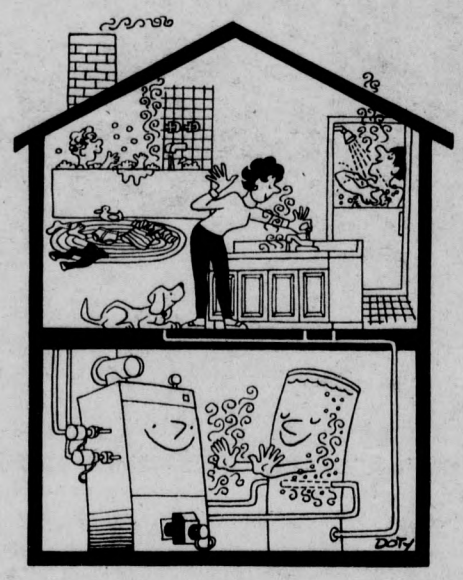
Getting into hot water on purpose



Many homeowners are saving money by using their home heating system to provide hot water for faucets, dishes, bathing and laundry. They are able to do this because they have a hydronic heating system, which uses hot water to provide efficient and comfortable heat to the home and can be adapted to provide domestic hot water as well.

Heat for most domestic hot water is the second largest cost of energy in most homes. It can account for one-third or more of the fuel consumed, depending on the size and life style of the family.

Most homes have a separately fired water heater to supply their domestic hot water requirements. But with a hydronic home heating system, domestic hot water can be obtained by using a "companion" heater tied in with the space heating boiler.

"The main advantage of companion water heaters," says the Better Heating-Cooling Council, "is the ready availability of plenty of hot water at moderate cost." Connected with the boiler, companion water heaters don't require a separate burner or special flue-pipe connection to the chimney. There are two types of companion heaters.

One uses a heat exchanger mounted inside the boiler. Called a "tankless," It uses a coil of copper tubing immersed in the hot boiler water of the home heating system. Heat is transferred through the copper to the incoming cold water only when hot water is being drawn.

The other system uses an external heat exchanger and a non-fired storage tank piped to the boiler. The heat exchanger can be situated btween the boiler and the tank, or it can be immersed in the tank. Such tanks are available in various capacities, so they can provide more hot water than the limited size of a tankless coil inside a boiler, and very much more than a direct-fired, wall-hung instantaneous unit.

Some companion systems are especially designed to overcome problems found in hard water areas where minerals can clog small diameter tubing.

Companion heaters work effectively year-round, but during the heating season they become super efficient. They rely on the boiler for their high efficiencies, so the operating cost primarily reflects the heat going into the water to be used, rather than losses up the chimney.

It is estimated that a family uses from 60 to 90 gallons of hot water a day. However, large amounts are used during peak periods — such as simultaneous morning showers. Two showers and a washing machine load could consume 60 gallons of water, placing pressure on the system's ability to furnish an uninterrupted flow of hot water.

The output of a companion heater depends on the boiler it is connected to. With the typical residential boiler, the output of a 30-gallon companion heater during the first hour rating — the amount of hot water available from the time the faucet is turned on until the water runs cool — ranges from about 75 gallons in warmer months to 150 gallons during the heating season.

TRUTH IN LENDING

VA loan an attractive program

By Ken Garneau

"Housing affordability." "First-time Homebuyer" programs. "How much dream home can I afford?" These are the topics reverberating through the thoughts and conversations of consumers over the past several years.

Ken Garneau

During the past several weeks, I have attempted to address some of these topics. Last week I moved from specialized programs and began to highlight mainstream programs lenders are offering to low- to moderate-income buyers.

Spotlighted initially was FHA financing. The column this week will look at programs designed to help veterans.

The Department of Veterans Affairs, a cabinet-level agency of the federal government, was authorized through the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944 to administer a variety of benefit programs designed to facilitate the adjustment of returning veterans to civilian life. Among the benefit programs is the VA Home Loan Guaranty program. It encourages mortgage lenders to offer long-term, low-down-payment financing to eligible veterans by partially guaranteeing the lender against loss in the event of a foreclosure.

The VA will guaranty a loan for any eligible veteran to purchase a home, provided the veteran has an income high enough to meet the mortgage payments, the veteran has an acceptable credit history, and has funds to close. VA has more liberal, common sense underwriting policies, enabling more veterans to purchase homes.

A few of VA's atractive attributes include:

- Maximum loan amount of $184,000, including VA funding fee.
- No down payment required, if property value does not exceed maximum loan amount.
- Higher qualifying ratios of 41 percent p.i.t.i (if no debt), makes it easier for buyer to qualify.
- Seller may pay all the buyers closing costs.
- Open to Reserve and National Guard personnel with six years of service.
- No income restrictions.
- Veterans can re-use their eligibility, if previous loan has been paid and the veteran is out of title.
- VA loans are assumable.
- Fixed and adjustable rate mortgages. Adjustable qualifies at 1 percent above initial rate.

Ken Garneau, a regular contributor to Real Estate Resource, is senior loan officer at Western Cities Mortgage Corp. For more information on VA loan programs, call Mr. Garneau at (714) 669-1968.

Think safety during holidays

"The stockings were hung from the chimney with care ..." So goes the famous holiday poem. But did that care include making sure the stockings were fire retardant? The North Orange County Association of Realtors offers a number of home safety tips to help make this holday season a safe one.

According to the association, decorating the home or apartment for the holidays should be a joyous event, but it's important to pay extra attention to safety, particularly in regards to fire safety. Most homes are more dry in the winter months due to heaters and fireplaces. This dryness, combined with increased electrical usage, open flames from holiday candles and generally a busier household, makes extra care essential.

The National Fire Protection Association reports that during the 1980s there were 560 structual fires annually involving Christmas Trees. A dry tree and poorly wired lights can cause disaster. Make sure that all electrical cords, lights and ornaments are approving by a testing agency, such as Underwriters Laboratories (UL), and are in good condition. Check for frayed ends or loose connections. All extension cords should be placed out of the normal path of traffic through the home and no furniture or other objects should be resting on the cords.

Those with pets should keep in mind their traffic patterns, too.

Keep the Christmas tree moist by checking the water level daily, selecting decorative lights that do not generate large amounts of heat. Place the tree away from direct sources of warmth such as radiators, teleysions and hot-air ducts. Tree lights should be turned only when an adult is present. Never leave tree lights on overnight.

Artificial trees should be fire retardant, too. Fire retardant spray is available for both the artificial and live trees.

Scented holiday candles can make a home warm and festive. Like tree lights, though, it is important never to leave a candle lit when an adult is not present to surpervise its burning.The base or candleholders should be sufficient to maintain dripping wax. Take care also that there is nothing near the burning flame that could ignite. Carefully extinguish the candle fame when leaving the room, and keep all matches and lighters out of the reach of children.

The kitchen is often one of the busiest rooms in the house during the holidays. Take careful not that no stove-top burners have inadvertently been left on. If small children are in the house, plan to keep them away from the kitchen during the busy meal preparation times. It is easy to become distracted when trying to prepare food items. Ask an older child, visting friend or relative to keep small children occupied while a meal is being prepared.

If there are not cigarette or pipe smokers in the househoud, but guests who do smoke are expected, have an adequate number of ashtrays available or request that guests do not smoke while visiting. A stray ash can smolder for hours before igniting in a piece of furniture or carpeting.

If the home or apartment does not have smoke detectors, now is the time to have them installed. If smoke detectors are in the home, check the batteries. If the age of the batteries is unknown, replace them. It is better to be safe than sorry.

REAL ESTATE POINTS OF LAW
By
ROSE POTHIER, ESQ.

The rules of escrow referrals

Real estate brokers and real estate sales agents frequently ask escrow companies for free or discounted escrow fees on their personal transactions. What is the law on this practice as it applies to independent escrow companies?

Under the federal Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act (RESPA) at Section 8, it is unlawful to pay or receive a referral fee, kickback or other "thing of value" for the referral of a settlement service where a "federally related loan" secured by residential real estate is concerned.

"Federally related loans" are defined by RESPA and involve a diversity of loan transactions including, but not limited to, those secured by residential dwellings which are insured or guaranteed by the federal government, made by financial institutions whose deposits are insured by the federal government, contemplated to be sold to the Federal National Mortgage Association or Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation, or for inclusion into mortgage-backed securities backed by the Government National Mortgage Assocation and others.

While RESPA permits real estate brokers to pay "employees" a referral fee for referring settlement services, most real estate brokers engage real estate sales agents on an independent contractor basis. Independent contractors are not employees and can, therefore, not legally be paid a fee for the referral of escrow business to the real estate broker's escrow division under RESPA. Further, although RESPA permits the payment of referral fees for the referral of settlement services to "employees," it is still unclear as to whether or not the state or the federal law prevails in California real estate transactions.

Further, under California Financial Code 17240, independent escrow companies are prohibitied from paying referral fees for the steering to them of escrow business.

Financial Code 17240 states in part: "Except for the normal compensation of his own employees, it shall be a violation of this division for any person subject to this division to pay over to any other person any commission, fee, or other consideration as compensation for referring, soliciting, handling, or servicing escrow customers or accounts."

While free or discounted escrow fees to real estate brokers or sales agents is not specifically addressed by the Escrow Law, the Department of Corporations has viewed such practices as being, in substance if not in form, an actual or potential kickback or payment for present or future escrow business from the real estate professional.

Therefore, the Department of Corporations views the discounting or offering of free escrow services to real estate professionals as violative of Financial Code 17420.

Rose Pothier, a regular contributor to Real Estate Resource, is with the Law Offices of Pothier & Associates in Santa Ana.

Fireplace heat goes up chimney

A fireplace may take the chill out of the air during the few days of fall, but it may not really be effective in reducing an overall energy bill.

"A properly functioning fireplace flue will not only draw out smoke but also about 20 percent of the heated air in the room each hour," says Lois Berger, president of the North Orange County Association of Realtors.

"Moreover, you are most likely only receiving 15 percent of potential heat produced by each burning log because much of the combustible material in the wood is lost as gas without burning or producing heat," she said.

This doesn't mean giving up the dream of cozy nights by the fire. A few simple modifications can increase the energy efficiency of a fireplace.

A heating grate made of hollow tubing and wrapped around logs and extended over the tops can recirculate heat produced by the fireplace. Certain models are equipped with electric blowers that direct hot air into the room instead of up the chimney.

Fireplace covers also increase heating efficiency. Steel covers with fire-resistant glass allows you to watch the fire while receiving radiant heat through the glass. But be sure to leave the damper open when the fire is burning or the coals are still glowing.

A cover should be placed over the opening of the fireplace at the end of the evening when the fire is nearly extinguished, but still hot enough to require an open damper to release smoke. Make certain the cover is tight-fitting around the edges so that room heat does not escape.

"The type of wood burned also can affect fireplace efficiency," Berger said. "Harder woods, such as birch, oak and maple, burn more slowly and give more evenly distributed heat. Softer woods, such as pine, burn faster and more unevenly. Beware of green, unseasoned wood which is difficult to burn and produces a great deal of smoke."

The damper should be kept closed whenever the fireplace is not in use, unless you are using natural ventilation to cool your home. Otherwise, you may find that it could pull expensive heated or cooled air from your house, which adds to your energy bill. To be sure the damper closes tightly, hold a hand mirror inside the chimney base to check for light leaks.

As a safety precaution, it's also a good idea to have your chimney swept each year to remove debris and to check for obstructions.

The North Orange County Association of Realtors is one of 11 such organizations in Orange County and is the Voice for Real Estate serving: Brea, Fullerton, La Habra, La Habra Heights, Placentia and Yorba Linda.

OC foreclosures up 3rd straight year

By Kelly Barron
The Orange County Register

More Orange County homes and office buildings will go back to the bank this year as foreclosures rise for the third consecutive year.

TRW Redi Property Data said recently that lenders will foreclose on 5,242 residential and commercial properties in the county by year's end — a 69 percent increase over 1992.

Lenders foreclose to gain possession of a property after a borrower has missed three or more payments.

Though foreclosures in the county continue to increase, TRW Redi analyst Nima Nattagh said the rate of increase is slowing. From 1991 to 1992, for example, foreclosures in the county rose 103 percent.

Orange County's foreclosure activity mirrors results elsewhere in the state. TRW Red estimates that foreclosures statewide will rise 58 percent this year.

Rates as of Dec. 2, 1993. All loans listed are conventional 30/30 for loans below $203,150 except as specified in the "Notes" column. Points are the per cent of the loan balance paid to the lender at the time of loan closing. For fixed-rate loans, borrowers are advised to compare lock-in features; for adjustable programs ask the lenders if the loan has the potential for negative amortization as well as other important factors such as the index, margin, Caps, insurance and lock-in. Lender Type is: B = bank; K = mortgage banker; R = mortgage broker; S = savings & loan. Mortgage bankers and brokers are licensed by the California Department of Real Estate as either a broker or corporation. For more information call Calif. DRE at (916) 227-0931.

All Annual Percentage Rates (A.P.R.) are calculated by Mortgage News Co. based on a $203,150 loan amount, the points as shown and $700 total fees. An A.P.R. is an estimated annual cost of the loan to the borrower, and they are included in this chart for comparison only. When applying for a loan, Federal Truth-in-Lending law requires lenders to calculate an A.P.R. specific to each loan offer. All quotes are not an offer to enter into a loan agreement. All rates are subject to change; verify rates and terms prior to applying for a loan. All lenders charge other fees in addition to those shown, as well as provide loans with different rates and terms for different loan amounts. For a consumer guide on how to shop for a mortgage, send $4.50 check payable to Mortgage News Co., 1505 East 17th St., Suite 211, Santa Ana, CA 92701. If you have questions please call (714) 836-1177.
